Troops in Charge; Plot Hinted.

Herrin, Ill., April 13.—[Special.]—Herrin's Klan war blazed out again today after a truce of fourteen months. When the smoke from the feud of pistols and machine guns had cleared away and the quiet was broken only by the monotonous and—Herrin's—familiar tramp of Illinois National Guardsmen patrolling the streets, the death list was written at six. Three of the victims were of the Klan and three of the anti-Klan. There were several wounded and a marital law was in prospect for tomorrow.

The two gun battles that sent the six to death, that drove noncombatants from the streets and election polls to the security of their homes, that brought the uniformed soldiers back to Williamson county, also swept away all results of the benign labors of the Rev. Howard S. Williams, itinerant evangelist, who last spring "brought peace to Herrin."

Sought to Kill Ten.

Tonight it was hinted that the two armed battles were the outcome of an anti-Klan plot to rid Herrin of its Klan leaders. Those who were killed, it was said, were John Ford, Harland Ford, Ald. Mack Sorenson, Ben Sizemore, John Smith, Eugene Vincent, Clyde Fowler, the Rev. P. R. Glosky of the Methodist Episcopal church, and the Rev. J. E. Sorey of the Christian church.

Three of these men fell—the two Sorensons and Harland Ford.

The anti-Klanism killed were Virgil Sorey of Harrisburg, Charles Briggs of near Marion, and Noble Weaver of Marion, all special Williamson county deputy sheriffs.

John Smith, said to be the chief of the Klan forces in Herrin, escaped with a slight gunshot wound in his neck when he fled into his garage, the scene of other fatal fights, barricaded himself, and defied his assailants, while the garage was riddled with machine gun bullets.

Vote Challenge Starts War.

The immediate cause of the rioting was the challenging of a number of Italian votes in the Fourth ward by John Smith. The campaign for the office of sheriff has been intensely bitter. The control of that office with its broad powers and its potentialities for hanging deputies on one or the other side in the feud has been the pre-dominant issue in the primary campaign.

Anti-Klan Precinct Worker Struck

Smith in the face, and a fist fight followed. Police and deputies restored order. Then matters quieted down, and an hour later, when Maj. Robert Smith of the Illinois National Guard, who has been detailed for more than a year to keep an eye on the Herrin situation, surveyed the town he reported all was quiet.

Smith Driven Into Garage.

Smith was the first man shot at. As he stood in front of his garage a small car pulled to the curb and a shot was fired. Smith fell slightly wounded in the neck and scrambled into his garage.

There, with his brother-in-law, Eugene Vincent, and two other men, he barricaded the place and prepared to stand siege. A few minutes later two cars drew up and a fusillade of pistol and machine gun bullets were poured into the garage.

Then the raiders piled into four automobiles and left toward the east.

From his office three blocks away, State Representative Sneed, an official of the United Mine Workers' union, telephoned to Adj. Gen. Carlos E. Black at Springfield for troops. More than a thousand shots had been fired, he told Black, who immediately ordered the Carbondale and Cairo companies to the scene.

Main Fight at Masonic Temple.

The Carbondale company was hurriedly mustered and rushed to Herrin on trucks. On their arrival—there were 22 of them—they stationed themselves at the Smith garage.

Soon after they took their station the raiders appeared at the garage, wore the uniforms, and again fired at them. Apparently they circled the town and sought a new place of attack. They found it at the Masonic temple as they entered from the west.

Huge Majority for

Boxing in Chicago

Incomplete figures on the vote in Chicago assure legalized boxing in this city under the state law. The vote in five hundred precincts was 92,841 for boxing to 17,857 against. Details in Sporting Section.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Not before in 24 years have the people of Chicago so decisively expressed their desire for improving Chicago as they did in the referendum yesterday. Each of the 16 bond issues, totaling $19,070,000, were approved by an overwhelming majority. The forest preserve zoo and the municipal court amendments went over, too, and on the crest of the high wave boxing rode to victory.

Incomplete returns indicate that the bond issues won by an apparent ratio of two and a half to one, or about 380,000 favorable votes to 152,000 unfavorable.

Improvement Need Recognized.

Probably the two chief factors in the bond successes were a feeling on the part of the public of the urgent necessity for public improvements and a belief that the millions voted would be honestly spent. With these two influences was coupled an attractive promise on the part of the city administration which definitely pledged that the improvements listed would be obtained as fast as the money could be economically spent.

President Sloan of the board of local improvements went even farther, he said that the $12,545,000 provided for the widening, paving, and otherwise improving of main arteries of travel, he would spend more than $5,000,000 before freezing weather arrives next December.

A canvass of other department heads last night brought the announcements that they plan to spend more than $11,000,000 on new streets, fire stations, bridges, street lights, and district yards before next Christmas.

Sees Revival of World Fair Spirit.

"If we could continue that rate for ten years," said an official of the Chicago Plan commission, "we would have a Chicago that would be a real city. Chicago urgently needs more than $100,000,000 in improvements right now. The vote was a magnificent expression. It is a revival of the spirit which produced the Chicago World's Fair."

The following short tabulation shows the total of the bond issues approved and, what is equally important and more interesting, the part of each which it is proposed to spend this year:

Purpose	Total	To be spent in 1926.
Widened streets	$12,545,000	$8,500,000
Street lighting	2,500,000	1,500,000
New bridges	2,500,000	600,000
New fire stations	2,125,000	550,000
District yards	300,000	150,000
Totals	$19,070,000	$11,300,000

Forest Preserve Zoo O. K'd.

In addition Chicago is to have a new zoo, located on 172 acres out near Riverside in the forest preserves. The cost of the park and buildings has been estimated at $4,000,000. The design of the institution will be under supervision of the Chicago Zoological society, composed of public spirited citizens who desire to equal, if not surpass, the best institutions in the world.

While a considerable data and information have already been collected in Europe, as well as in this country, it is improbable that actual construction will be started before the spring of 1927, when the proceeds of tax levies will be available.

The approved permit the judges to increase the salaries of clerks and bailiffs, who receive less than $2,500 a year each, and also the compensation of the chief clerk and chief bailiff of the court.

The remaining small ballot proposition recitalizes the improvement of the voters' legalized professional boxing and wrestling. It was technically a referendum on an act passed by the last legislature which creates a commission to supervise boxing. Legislation.

DENEEN SLATE IS BEATEN FOR MAJOR OFFICES

New Timber for Mayor Appears.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Incomplete returns indicate the Crowe-Barrett group made a clean sweep on the big county offices in yesterday's primary battle. The Deneen ticket was swamped by indicated pluralities ranging from 5,000 to 100,000.

On the four major offices upon which the rival camps concentrated their fighting, the returns from more than one-half of the Chicago precincts point to the following pluralities if the candidates keep up the pace at which they have been so far running:

Savage for county judge.....30,000
Barrett for board of review.....110,000
Haffa for county treasurer.....100,000
Boutell for president of the county board.....35,000

County Returns Slow.

In the country towns, the Deneenites have apparently cracked the C-B slate on minor offices. Indications are that three out of five Deneen candidates for county members of the county board have been nominated.

William Busse is leading for county member, although defeated for president. Figures are slow in coming in.

In the Chicago vote, the Deneen candidate who has been running closest to a win in the incomplete returns is none other than Joseph (Diamond Joe) Esposito.

Majority politics traveled close in the wake. Politicians were quick to point out that the sensational victory of Charles V. Barrett over Coroner Oscar Wolf, of the Deneen group, for board of review, develops him as a logical candidate for mayor next winter.

In one-half of all Chicago's precincts so far reported, Mr. Barrett, best Coroner Wolf almost two to one, while in the country towns he is running forty votes to a precinct ahead of the coroner.

Barrett Proves Ability.

For months past politicians have listed Mr. Barrett as a potential majority candidate in case things broke right, and yesterday the ability he showed as a vote getter is regarded by C-B leaders as furnishing him with running shoes for the mayoralty.

The anti-world court issue ran away with the campaign, and yesterday it gave plenty of tokens that it had run away with the election. It is seldom that a ticket gets through a primary without being cracked here and there on the big jobs carrying the patronage.

Yesterday, it appears, set a precedent of a state on the big jobs winning apparently in its entirety. It is chalked up to the anti-world court sentiment, on which every C-B candidate in stated on running, that being the one appeal that got a rise out of audiences.

Lundin-Small a Yoke.

The Lundin-Small complex also proved too great a burden for the Deneenites.

As against the C-B world court issue, the Deneen bipartisan alliance issue, it seems, made little or no noise with the voters, while the "pop Swede" proved an old man of the sea on the candidates' necks when they tried sprinting.

Savage Has 21,000 Lead.

Joseph P. Savage, C-B, is leading Daniel P. Trude, Deneen entry for county judge, by an average of 15 votes to a precinct in Chicago. With 1,560 city precincts in he has an actual lead of 18,214 votes. If his present rate is maintained it would yield Savage a plurality in Chicago of 26,000. This may be scaled in the entire county will be about 25,000.

The county judgeship is the job over which the controversy was most ferocious, for the reason that it carries control of the election machinery.

New Savage Strongholds.

Incomplete ward tables on the county judgeship where the battling was fiercest on account of the election machinery it controls indicate that Savage walked away from Judge Trude in residential districts, where the Deneenites have always been strong, notably the north shore straits.

The Second and Third wards, where the rivalry was intense for the capture of the colored vote, went to Savage by large margins. In Trude's own ward, the Fourth, the incomplete returns at midnight gave Savage a lead. George

PRIMARY VICTORS TELL WHAT THEY THINK OF RESULT

It Means End of Court, Says Smith Manager.

The following statements were issued last night after the results seemed fixed:

BY ALLEN F. MOORE,
(Chairman, Frank L. Smith Manager Committee.)

Frank L. Smith's success in the campaign for senator was the greatest and greatest ever made by an Illinoisman. It was a single handed campaign against tremendous odds, against tremendous combinations within and without the state. He made his appeal directly to Republican voters. It was an appeal in behalf of principles. He asked no outside help. He used no means that were not wholly honorable.

Also, it was a great triumph for sound Republicanism. With Smith heading the ticket in the November election, victory is assured. His victory today means a great deal to every other Republican nominee in the state. Smith's victory also serves notice upon the world that the Americanism of Illinois should never again be doubted. It was a triumph for the time honored policy that America keep out of European politics, and keep Europe out of American politics. I firmly believe a result of it will be the withdrawal of the United States, in some way or another, from the so-called world court.

Most of all, Smith's astounding majority was a great triumph for the plain voter. Both the men and women of Illinois knew what they wanted, and they stood up against all temptations, and got it. Smith has demonstrated that the people of Illinois believe him to be the state's best Republican.

BY JOSEPH P. SAVAGE, (Candidate for County Judge.)

I am extremely grateful for the good men and women of Cook county who nominated me.

If elected I pledge that I will administer the office of county judge in the interest of the people alone and I will not knowingly or consciously do any act to cause any man or woman to regret the support given me in this primary.

BY CLAYTON F. SMITH,
(Chairman of the campaign committee of the regular Democratic organization.)

The entire ticket of the regular Democratic organization was nominated by overwhelming majorities. The candidacy of George E. Brennan for the office of United States senator was in part responsible for this happy result; also for the fact that 200,000 Democrats went to the polls despite the absence of a contest worthy of consideration.

We are now all set for the campaign which will be determined at the ballot box in November, when we are confident we will win another important victory.

BY GEORGE E. BRENNAN, (Democratic senatorial nominee.)

Under the circumstances we appear to have polled a remarkable total. It reflects more than Democratic interest. It reflects enthusiasm and determination.

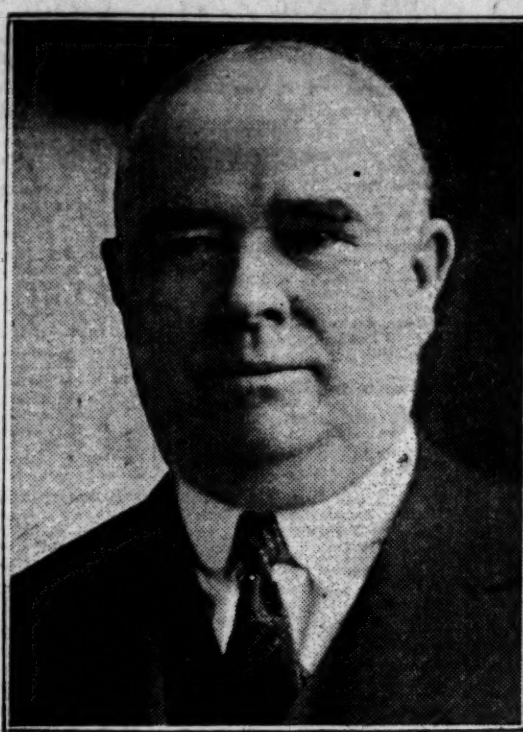

It is certain now that there will be a vigorous and aggressive fighting spirit.

OUTSTANDING WINNERS AT THE PRIMARIES

(Blank Stoller Photo.)
FRANK L. SMITH.

The Illinois Republicans yesterday made Frank L. Smith their candidate, defeating William B. McKinley who sought renomination. The Democrats named Brennan.

(Walinger Photo.)
GEORGE E. BRENNAN.

On the issues which we have brought out in our campaign, this, we believe, is the best possible indication of a sweeping victory in November.

Neither State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe nor Homer Galpin, chairman of the county central committee, leaders of the Crowe-Barrett ticket, would comment on the victory last night.

"We are just a couple of country squires and are going to retire until the fall, when we will cast our vote properly," was their only comment. "We don't know anything," they added significantly.

Municipal Judge Daniel P. Trude, defeated candidate for the Republican nomination for county judge, could not be reached late last night but announcement was made in his behalf from his home that he preferred to wait until this morning before making a formal statement, on the grounds that he then would be in a better position to judge whether or not he had been defeated.

NO UPSETS ARE INDICATED IN ASSEMBLY RACE

Incomplete returns on the legislative primaries fail to indicate any definite upsets, either for Gov. Small or his foes, in the fight for assembly seats. The governor appeared to be winning in some districts and losing in others.

In the Sixth district where Lincoln park patronage was used to the limit in an effort to nominate Emil A. W. Johnson, park superintendent, Johnson, the governor's candidate, was running neck to neck with Charles Reinhart, Crowe-Barrett candidate.

Senator Herman Haensch, another of the governor's candidates, was leading George Williston in the Sixth district.

Senator Mason in the Oak Park district apparently defeated both organizations in an independent fight for renomination.

YOUTHIE TIE, BOB MANAGER.
Two youthful bandits entered the Eaglewood saloon, 2000 West 10th avenue, last night and after looting $1,000, the same manager, escaped with $700.

BAR SELECTIONS ARE DISCARDED IN VOTE FOR JUDGES

Crowe-Barrett, Brennan
Tickets Victorious.

Sweeping aside the recommendations of the Chicago Bar association with respect to candidates for judge of the Municipal court, the Republican voters in yesterday's primary nominated the candidates running under the Crowe-Barrett banner with only one possible exception.

On the face of returns from 500 precincts out of 2,270 in Chicago it would seem that five sitting judges, all Republicans, will be retired. They are Judges Samuel H. Trude, George B. Holmes, and William L. Morgan of the Deneen-Lundin group, and Judges Henry M. Walker and Asa G. Adams, who ran unsupported.

Five Sitting Judges Renominated.

The sitting judges in the Crowe-Barrett faction, who are John A. Buge, William B. Peters, Robert E. Gentzel, Laurence B. Jacobs, and Joseph Schulman, are renominated.

Two examples of the manner in which the voters rejected the bar association's recommendations were seen in the nomination of John Sbarbaro, who apparently leads the Republican judicial ticket, and Robert E. McMullan, who ran seventh.

The vote on the Democratic side for Municipal judges similarly disregarded the bar recommendations, and every candidate put up by the Brennan machine was nominated by an overwhelming vote.

Table of Judicial Returns.

The following tables show the vote for leading candidates for municipal judge cast in 500 out of 2,270 precincts in Chicago. Crowe-Barrett candidates are indicated by the initials C-B. Deneen-Lundin by D. Brennan by B.

Kinney Leads Stratton in Race for State Treasurer

Garrett D. Kinney of Peoria, former chairman of the Republican state committee, began to forge ahead of William J. Stratton, Gov. Small's candidate, as more complete returns on the Republican contest for state treasurer began to come in this morning.

Kinney took the lead after a hectic night, struggling returns first putting Stratton in the lead, only to be overcome by Kinney, who again dropped back.

Early returns from state administration strongholds in the downstate put Stratton out in front, and he led also in the first returns from Chicago. Kinney quickly overcame these early losses, however, when the north side wards began to report and more complete returns became available from downstate.

At 4 a. m., with 3,209 of the state's 6,053 precincts reporting, the vote stood: Kinney, 219,146; Stratton, 182,412.

Early this morning it was discovered that an error in returns had given Stratton a 10,000 advantage in the vote, and the correction put Kinney in the lead. At the ratio indicated Kinney would win by about 60,000 votes. Stratton is director of conservation in the governor's cabinet. Small put the full weight of the state administration back of Stratton's candidacy in an effort to gain control of the state treasury for the remaining two years of his term as governor.

After running neck to neck during the night, Supreme Court Clerk Charles W. Vail began to pull away from his opponent, Ulysses G. Lee, early this morning, although Lee still continued to hold his lead in Cook county. With 1,225 precincts heard from, the vote stood: Vail, 101,365; Lee, 73,659.

Candidates for state offices backed by the regular Democratic organization won the nominations in a walk. They are:

SAMUEL L. NELSON of Peoria, for state treasurer.

ALEXANDER W. JAMIESON, Chicago, for state superintendent of public instruction.

JOHN A. LOAN SR., Elgin, for clerk of the Supreme court.

STATE MEMBERS OF CONGRESS ALL SEEM RENAMED

With the results certain in nearly all districts, it was apparent last night that probably every one of Illinois' twenty-seven congressmen had been renominated.

The number of contests was small, particularly on the Democratic side, but a large majority of the state's delegation in the lower house at Washington won hands down their chance to run again in November. The wet and dry issue did not enter into the primary anywhere nearly so much as it will in the second battles.

Irwin Has Close Race.
The latest returns available indicated that the most serious danger threatening any of the incumbents was over the head of Congressman E. M. Irwin of the Twenty-second district, where W. E. Trautman of East St. Louis was reported to have a lead.

Sproul Ahead of Wilson.
Early figures showed Wilson leading, but when thirty-five of the 292 precincts in the district had been heard from the count stood: Sproul 2,023 and Wilson 1,855.

First returns on the Sixth district also showed that Mayor Willis McFeeley of Oak Park had put up a strong battle against Congressman John J. Gorman, but returns from 53 out of 395 precincts gave Gorman 4,052 to McFeeley's 1,590.

Congressman Martin B. Madden, Chicago's veteran in the lower house, had no trouble at all defeating F. W. Chavers, a Negro supported by a movement in the Black Belt frowned upon by its chief leaders. Figures from 28 out of 152 precincts gave Madden 2,762 and Chavers only 111.

*Incumbent.

Thomas A. Brockmeyer, the Crowman candidate in the Seventh, apparently was beaten by Congressman M. A. Michaelson, who has the backing of Fred Lundin.

There was little information available from the state on the vote for congressman-at-large, but even meager reports showed that the two Republican incumbents, Richard Yates and Henry R. Rathbone, had won easily.

Harvey Sindlinger, Danville, who opposed their dryness with a wet platform, ran well for a man whose name was not widely known, but did not get near them. Similarly the two Democratic organization candidates for these offices, Charles A. Karch of East St. Louis and Frank J. Wise of Joliet, won easily.

Few Contests Downstate.
Downstate districts failed to produce even the normal number of warm contests. Six of the fifteen downstate incumbents had no opposition whatever

In their party primaries. These included some of the state's veteran representatives.
Congressman Frank R. Reid, who has represented the Eleventh (Aurora) district the last two terms, had no Republican opponent and the Democrats, since there was no candidate filed from their ranks, were busy with the process of writing in their choice to run against Reid in the election. Reid is considered a wet.

In the Twelfth district Congressman Charles E. Fuller of Belvidere, veteran of eleven terms of continuous service, except for the Sixty-third congress, had a real fight with State Senator Herbert S. Hicks of Rockford, another dry. Fuller had what advantage there might be in the endorsement of the Anti-Saloon league. A third entry, Richard J. O'Halloran of La Salle, a wet, hoped to be the beneficiary of the split in the dry vote. John A. Logan, Warren of Durand, had no opposition for the Democratic nomination.

In the Thirtieth district there again was a race between two Republican drys, Congressman William R. Johnson of Freeport and Solon W. Crowell of Oregon, both approved by the Anti-Saloon league. There was no Democratic entry by petition.

GUNMEN FORCE POLL CLERKS TO FALSIFY RETURNS

Shootings and Kidnapings Mark Ballot Close.

Shootings, kidnapings, and attempts to change the returns made in various polling places featured the close of the hotly contested primary election yesterday.

Armed men, it was reported to the election commissioners last night, took possession of the 21st precinct voting place in the Forty-second ward and forced the officers of election to sign dictated returns. The commissioners ordered the returns withheld from the tabulation until an investigation is made.

Previously one of the Republican judges of election, Joseph Calvea, of 850 Sedgwick street, was kidnaped when he stepped out to eat. He was held prisoner for nearly six hours.

When he was released by his captors, after being robbed of $30, he went back to the polling place, at 416 West Chicago avenue. He found, he said, that the armed men had terrorized the other officials. As soon as his report reached the election commissioners an inquiry was launched by County Judge Jarecki.

Forced to Sign Returns.
Calvea's statement was corroborated by Margaret Klipp, Democratic judge of election in the same precinct. She told Attorney Cornelius Harrington, representing the commissioners, that she had been forced to sign false returns. The armed men, she added, were known to her only as John and "Buffalo." The latter is said to be a Municipal court bailiff.

The election commissioners, expressing astonishment at the conditions, ordered that the other officers of election in the precinct be called in today.

They are Eugene Wilson, 856 Sedgwick street; Guy Gigivona, 857 Sedgwick street; and John Lambden, 412 West Chicago avenue. The returns are also to be checked.

Democratic Worker Stabbed.
James O'Neill, 2565 West Grand avenue, a Democratic worker, was stabbed and shot in the face late last night in a mysterious fight that occurred in front of the polling place of the 17th precinct of the 42d ward, at 1816 West Grand avenue. He was taken to the Midwest hospital by Ray Tracy, also a Democratic worker in the precinct.

Tracy asserted that he knew nothing of the battle—that he found O'Neill wandering dazed in the street. Despite his story, he was held at the Warren avenue police station. O'Neill was taken to the Bridewell hospital, where it was said he probably will recover.

Although police were kept busy answering calls to spots where disorder was reported all through the day, Judge Jarecki asserted it was "just a typical Chicago election." The disorders, he added, were not in most cases serious and the situation was always well in hand.

Gangsters in three automobiles rushed into the polling place in the 15th precinct of the 39th ward at 5501 West Madison street, fired several shots, slugged a policeman, Charles Saxon, into unconsciousness, kicked over ballot boxes, and shouting threats, fled to their cars and escaped.

Their action was precipitated by the arrest of an alleged vote repeater. The gangsters seized the prisoner from Policeman Saxon and took him along in one of the three cars. Deputy Chief of Detectives John Stege led the search for the disturbers.

A west park policeman, off duty and not in uniform, shot and seriously wounded Mark Prikorek, 23 years old, 2235 Cullerton street, during an argument in front of 2105 South Western avenue, polling place in the 21st ward. The policeman, William Ziegert, 2426 West 24th place, declared Prikorek and two other men sought to mob him when he interrupted their quarrel.

Conditions in the 24th ward were reported so dangerous to Judge Jarecki that he appealed for aid to Chief of Police Collins and was given a special detail of policemen to tour the ward.

"We have received more than twenty complaints of violence and intimidation from our election employees in that ward," the judge told Chief Collins. "The entire ward is in a state of approaching turmoil as the ballots are being counted and immediate aid should be sent."

One of the reported disturbances in the 24th ward came from officials of the 9th precinct at 1561 South Kedzie avenue, who told how a dozen men armed with revolvers and shotguns raided the polling place. They began to seize ballots, but were frightened off by the approach of two policemen. The license number on their automobile had been issued to Samuel Alex, 2604 Wentworth avenue, according to the police, who found no one at home at that address.

In the Forty-second ward, trouble spot of the north side, gangsters led by Earl (Hymie) Weiss, a lieutenant in the band once led by Dean O'Blanc, carried on a campaign of terrorism. Weiss was arrested in the polling place in the Twenty-second precinct of the ward, at 752 North Wells street, after he drew a revolver during an argument with Francis Perry, 732 North La Salle street, judge of election.

With Weiss was Frank Foster, 28 years old, an Italian, who was also arrested. Both were released on bonds furnished by William F. Schofield, who was O'Blanc's business partner.

Early this morning, while the election officers in this place were still counting votes, two armed men attempted to steal a ballot box, but were driven away by Policeman Edward Russell, who had arrested Weiss earlier. A squad of police was sent to guard the polls until the count had been completed.

One band of hoodlums in the ward invaded the 10th precinct polling place two hours and then released. Other gangsters visited the 15th, 16th and 17th precincts in the ward, Scherwat charged, declaring that he recognized Philip Dusenberry and Charles Miller, notorious bad man among the raiders.

Vincent (Schemer) Drucci led a gang of rival gunmen into the ward, according to police, on assigned to the state's attorney's office. They entered the 36th precinct at 545 Rush street and terrorizing the officials, told them the precinct must be carried for Mrs. Bertha Baur, candidate for congress opposing Congressman Fred Britten. Charles Blaine, a Crowe-Barrett worker, told the police he had noticed Titus Haffa, a candidate for assessor and supposed campaign manager for Mrs. Bauer, in the gang.

The kidnapers confined their activities mostly to political workers of the various factions, it was reported to the election commissioners, and except in a few instances did not molest the election officials.

Seize Election Judge.
The precinct workers kidnaped were driven about the city for hours, until after the polls closed, it was reported. Carl Sand Jr., 1444 Newberry street, and Joseph Gavoni were among the workers carried away.

Roy O. West, Deneen campaign leader, telephoned a complaint to election officials that Aid. Bert Cronson was interfering with voters in the polling place at 1226 East 46th street, the 4th precinct of the 4th ward. The complaint was to be investigated.

Three men, charged with attempting to vote twice, were arrested in the Thirty-fifth precinct of the Thirtieth ward. They are Walter Rauch, 400 South Kilbourn avenue; Frank A. Hill, 1956 Diversey avenue; and Thomas Scanlon, 4420 West Harrison street. After questioning by Attorney Harrington they were released.

Better Than Ice For Skin or Complexion

Every Beauty Doctor knows the value of Ice Treatments for the complexion, but recently an English Beauty Specialist found that even better results could be obtained by simply rubbing the face, neck or hands with a little ordinary ice-mint either just before retiring at night or whenever one desires to look their best.

The reaction of the ice-mint on the skin not only brings the color to the cheeks the same as an ice treatment, but it also holds the color there longer and makes the skin soft, firm and more youthful in appearance. Wrinkles will soon be a thing of the past to the woman who cares for her skin. Many have already made themselves look years younger by these simple ice-mint treatments, and Druggists say they are having an enormous demand for it as the cost is little and it is positively a boon to any woman who loves a good complexion and nice hands and skin.

Fifield-Oxford Clothes

IT TAKES something more than fine needlework and fine fabrics to produce Fifield-Oxford Clothes.

It takes men to whom designing and producing an unusual quality of clothing is as much an art as the painting of a great picture or the writing of a great play.

In the Fifield-Oxford workshops, such creative minds find complete expression. Take one of these garments in your own hands and it is a real pleasure to feel, a joy to see.

Kingdoms may not stand or fall on the moulding of a shoulder, the shaping of a lapel or the draping of a coat to the body form, yet in Fifield-Oxford Clothes the finished work has a closer scrutiny, must merit a shrewder approbation than ever a customer would give it.

Again, the total absence of eccentricities of styling, the extreme care in selecting patterns, make possible that accurate interpretation of gentlemanly attire so necessary to men who know.

These very rare qualities are built into all Fifield-Oxford Clothes, and many months of wear serve to reveal and accentuate their worth.

You are invited to visit our present showing of Fifield-Oxford Clothes for SPRING. Every garment will excite your warmest admiration—to see and to own.

CROWE-BARRETT TICKET MAKES A CLEAN SWEEP

Savage Beats Trude by

Harding lives in this ward, as do Charles Kruttschoff, Robert Levy, and John H. Passmore—all C-B leaders—and they rolled up leads for Harding for treasurer and Passmore for clerk of the Criminal court, that apparently pulled Savage through. Nearly half the precincts, however, are missing.

In the old Hyde Park and Woodlawn wards, devoted to South Chicago, Judge Trude, the incomplete figures indicate, led Savage. Also over in the old Town of Lake territory, the personal zone of Senator Charles S. Deneen, Trude led, but on the west side and up and down the north side, in most wards, Savage is given a lead.

Fight by Wards.

In the county judge fight the partial returns denote that Roy O. West carried the Fifth for Trude, but Louis J. Behan carried the same ward for Harding.

L. F. King, president of the drainage board, in the Twelfth rolled up a two to one vote for Savage, while in Charles V. Barrett's ward, the 21st, Savage ran seven to one ahead of Trude, as did Harding ahead of Devine for treasurer.

Senator Charles S. Deneen's ward, the Seventeenth, went to Trude. So did the home ward of Thomas J. Healy, Appellate court clerk.

In the Twenty-second, home of A. W. Miller, sanitary trustee, Savage proved a 4 to 1 shot.

In Galpin's Ballfield.

Homer K. Galpin's ward, the Twenty-seventh, rolled up a 3 to 1 lead for Savage over Trude and made Harding a 7 to 1 shot against Devine.

State's Attorney Crowe's ward, the Twenty-ninth, where the Deneenites were relying on Dr. John Dill Robertson to step on it, gave Savage almost 3 votes to Trude's 1 and Harding more than 2 votes to Devine's one.

In Fred Lundin's old ward, the Thirty-seventh, where the west park patronage was a mainstay at the polls, Trude beat Savage and Devine ran neck and neck with Harding. John Devine's ward, the Thirty-ninth, went to Trude by a narrow margin.

Savage carried the Forty-third, the home of Edward R. Litsinger, the home of Galpin's Ballfield.

State's Attorney Crowe's ward, the Twenty-ninth, where the Deneenites were relying on Dr. John Dill Robertson to step on it, gave Savage almost 3 votes to Trude's 1 and Harding more than 2 votes to Devine's one.

Deneen war horse, likewise the Forty-sixth, the home of Edward J. Brundage; all this on the basis of incomplete returns.

Miss Whitham Named.

The one spot where the Deneenites were able to climb aboard was on county superintendent of schools, where they endorsed the candidate placed on the C-B ticket, Minnie Whitham.

On sanitary district trustees, where the returns are slow in coming in, the C-B ticket is running ahead of the Deneen ticket by whopping pluralities. In the first 250 precincts reported King, Eller, and Graydon, C-B's, are beating Todd, Guernsey, and Albert, two to one and three to one.

With about one-eighth the Chicago precincts in, the returns on lesser ofsices of the county ticket, run two to one or three to one. LeRoy Milner, C-B, in the first 100 precincts is beating Capt. William C. Scherwat for county clerk, more than two to one. In the same precincts George H. Hough, C-B, is running three to one ahead of Thomas J. Holmes for Probate judge.

Passmore Has Big Margin.

George Hitzman, C-B, for Probate court clerk in the same precincts is running two to one ahead of H. C. W. Laubenhelm, Deneen candidate.

John Passmore in the first 200 precincts, running for clerk of the Criminal court, is beating Chester S. Patrick, Deneen, about four to one.

On sheriff, both slates had Lundin men, but Arnold on the C-B ticket is leading Peters on the Deneen slate, almost two to one.

George F. Harding, C-B, is leading John F. Devine, Deneen, for county treasurer by an average in excess of 45 votes to a precinct. On the basis of returns from one-half of the city precincts he has an indicated plurality in Chicago in excess of 90,000.

County Board Race.

Francis L. Boutell, C-B, for president of the county board, has a much closer race with William Busse, the Deneen candidate.

The Busse candidacy has been rated as being especially strong in the country towns, but the incomplete returns indicate that Boutell may carry Cook county by at least 35,000, perhaps considerably more. This is an office upon which the Deneen camp was counting most strongly on breaking the Crowe-Barrett slate.

The Democrats had an easy time. It was a push over for the Brennan ticket to overcome the slate presented by the O'Connell-Dunne-Harrison-Lewis democracy.

On the Democratic side, A. J. Cermak for president of the county board

WEALTHY MAN'S WIFE SEIZED AS A SHOPLIFTER

Mrs. Rebecca Brown, 27 years old, wife of a wealthy accountant living at 1607 Tuohy avenue, was arrested on a larceny charge yesterday when employees of S. L. Kedzie & Co., 214 South Franklin street, saw her carrying away dresses, valued at $50, under her fur coat.

Zamory Giddens, manager for the concern, held the woman while the others telephoned for the police. When Policemen Thomas Lee and John Flaherty arrived they found that the dresses were still concealed under the wrap.

Morris Brown, the husband, was summoned to the Central station. His remarks to the police were considered too acrid and he was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. He asserted the case was a frameup; that Mrs. Brown had gone to the Kedzie firm to exchange the dresses. Attorney Benjamin Vanderveld, representing the company, said that the prosecution would go through.

Mrs. Brown was released on bonds.

PEGGY TO HEAR WEDDING BELLS FOR FIFTH TIME

Miami Real Estate Man Added to Her List.

Miami, Fla., April 12.—[Special.]—Peggy Hopkins Joyce announced here today that she is engaged to marry Stanford E. Comstock, wealthy Miami real estate dealer.

"Yes, I am engaged to marry Mr. Comstock," she said, and showed a large diamond engagement ring. Comstock was standing beside her as the widely known stage and screen star, whose four previous marriages have ended in divorces, made the announcement.

Tried to Keep It Secret.

"This is my fiancé, Stan Comstock. But I can't see how my engagement is of interest to the public. We have tried to keep it a secret and have done so well today." She turned to Comstock who blushed and nodded in the affirmative.

She said she and her fiancé had not set the date for the wedding but intended that it would occur before she sailed for Europe on May 1. She also indicated that her coming marriage would be her last one, that it would endure forever.

It will be remembered that Peggy and James Stanley Joyce procured their marriage license in Miami. She lived here with Joyce, who gave her a mansion, which was returned to him when they were divorced. She said Comstock intended to purchase a Spanish home here, where they would live during the winter.

Will Sail for New York.

She and Comstock will sail on Thursday on the steamship H. F. Alexander of the Admiral Line for New York, which will arrive there on Saturday. Denials were made that they have already procured a license and that a ceremony might be had here before Saturday.

Miss Joyce was divorced in Paris only a few weeks ago from her fourth husband, Count Carlo Marzani de Moreland, who at the time of their marriage was a Chicago tooth paste manufacturer.

Gives Father an Income.

Richmond, Va., April 12.—[Special.]—Peggy Hopkins Joyce has settled enough money on her father, Sam Upton, for many years town barber of Farmville, Va., to enable him to shut up shop and take it easy the remainder of his days. She has given her father enough to enjoy an income of $250 a month. His younger daughter, Lucille, who married a wealthy Brooklyn man a year or so ago, has chipped in enough to run the income up to $350. Peggy had already lifted the mortgage from her father's home.

FAMOUS FEET

...how they're kept free from corns..

LOUISE GROODY'S Famous Dancing Feet

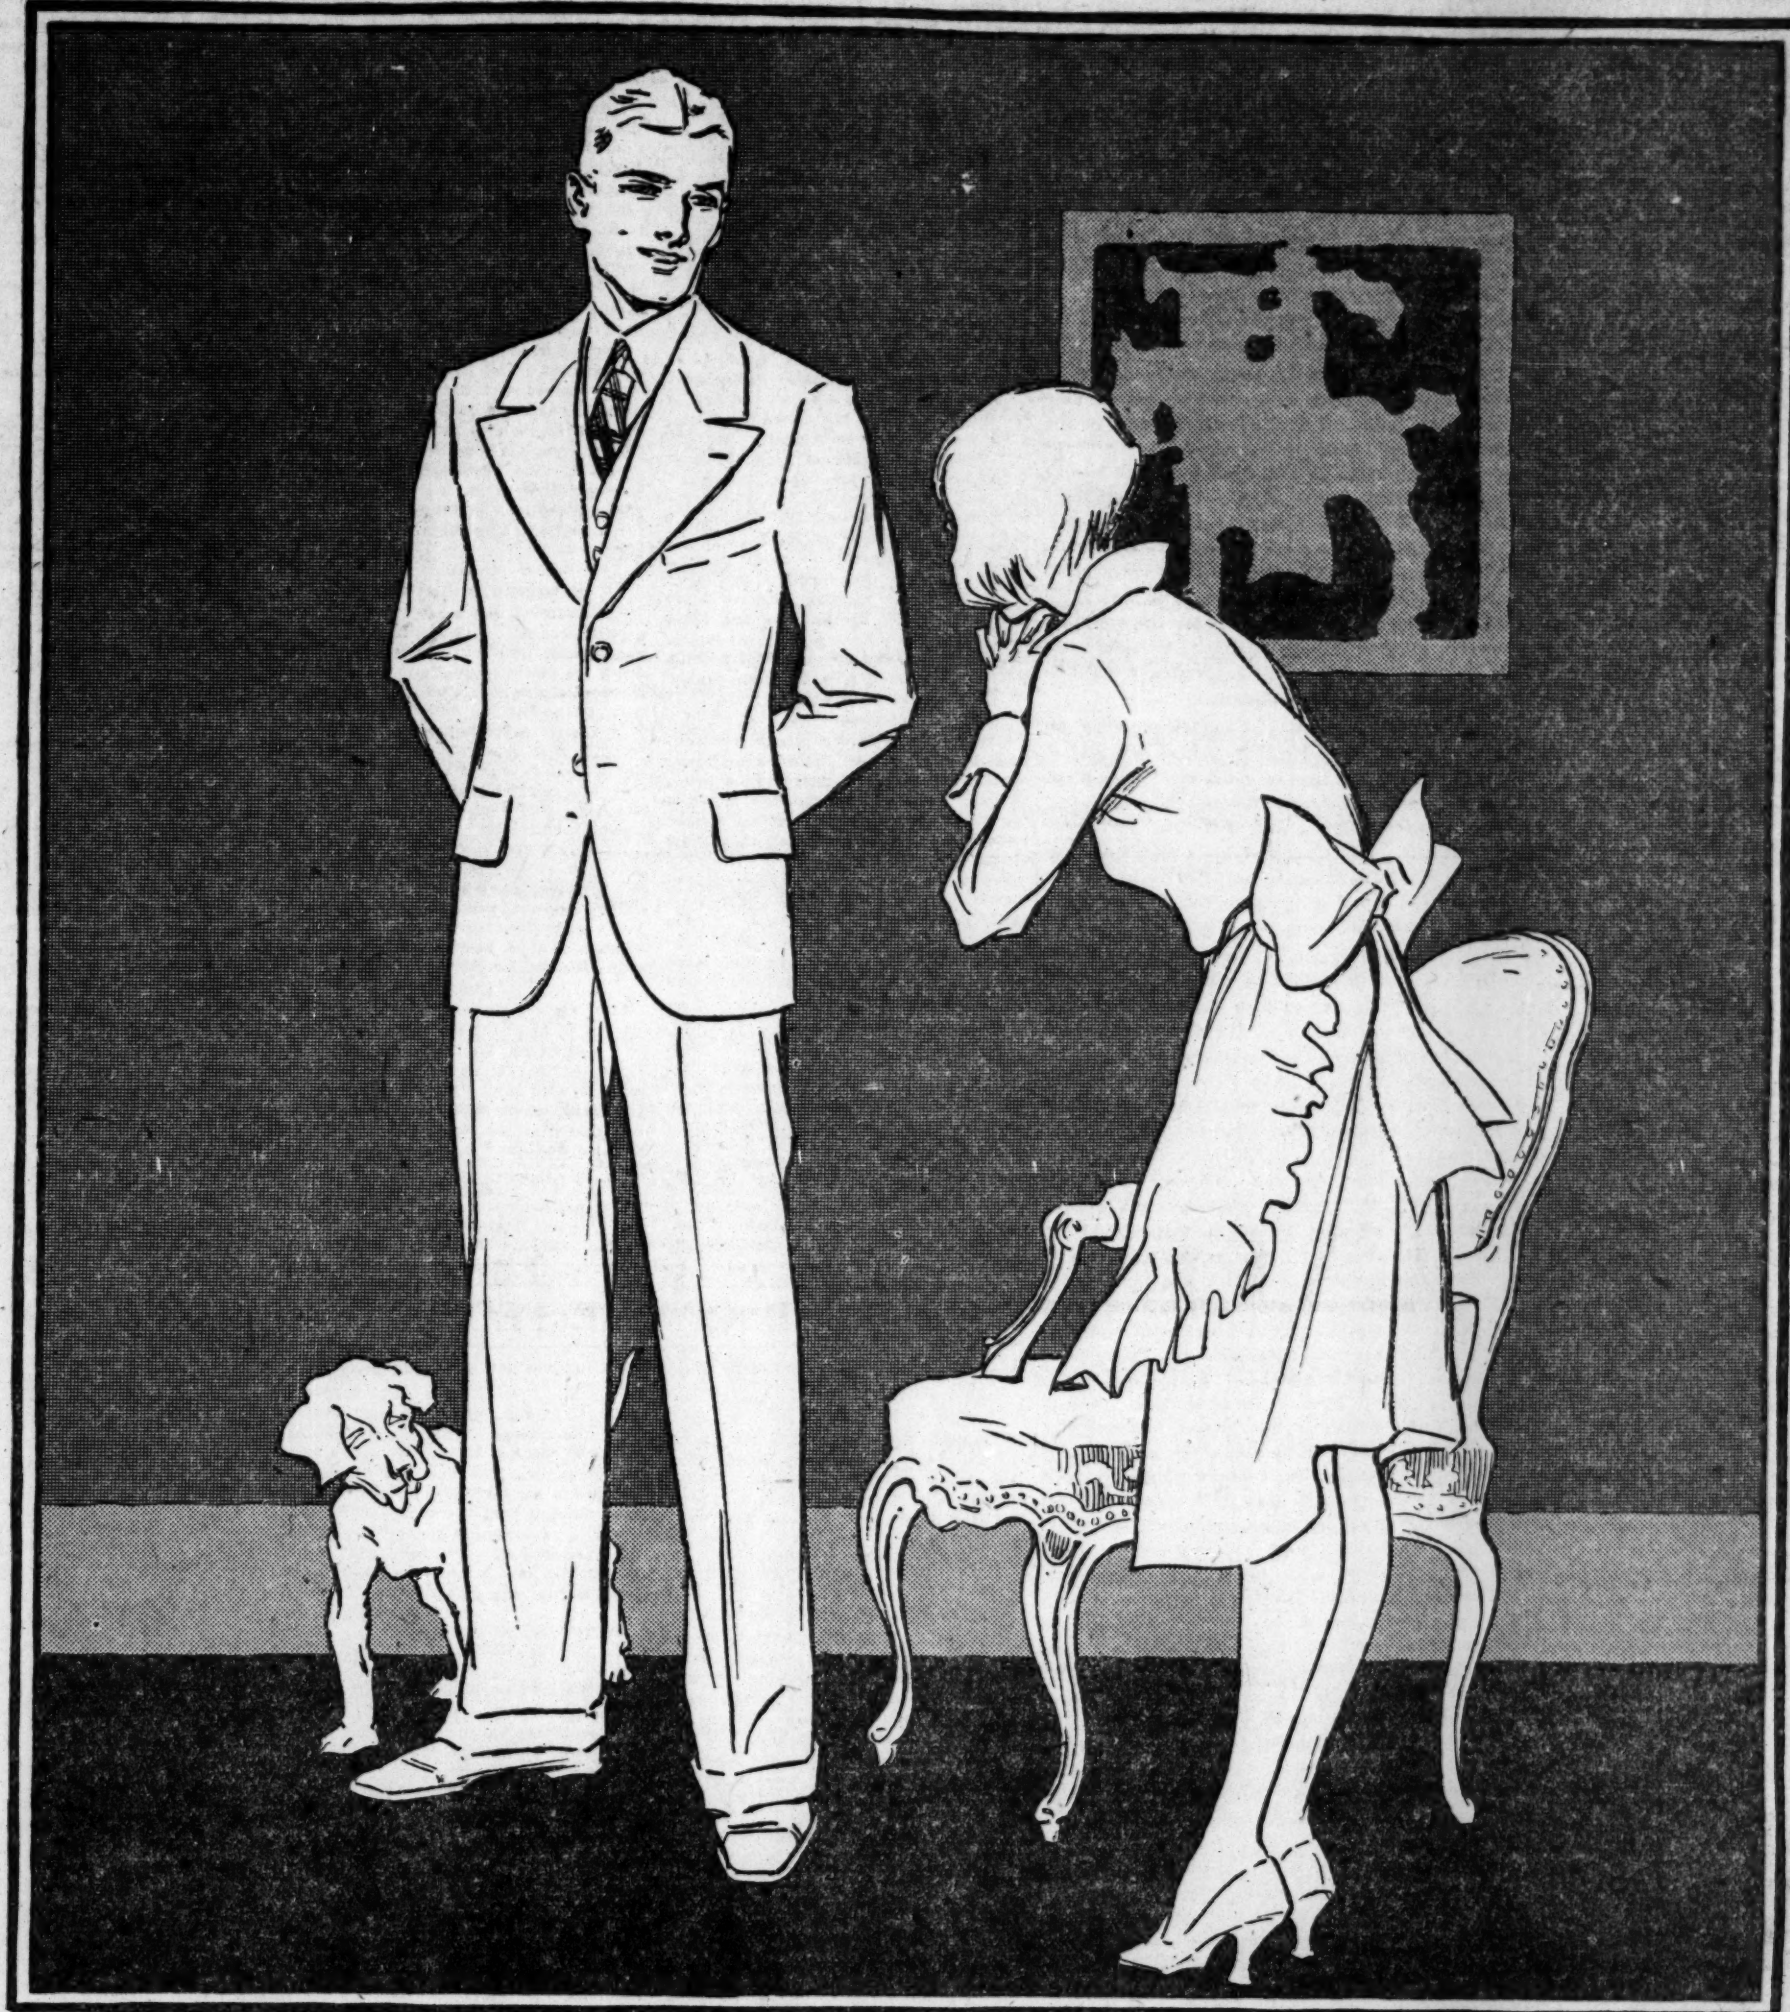

"I always have Blue-jay on hand when trouble is a-foot!" writes dainty and delightful Louise Groody, now starring in the New York musical comedy success, "No! No! Nanette."

"Stage work isn't always kindly to a dancer's toes. But I never have corns. For at the least sign of an approaching callus, I put on a Blue-jay."

Blue-jay is an old standby to folks who reap fame and fortune from their feet. A soft, velvety cushion fits over the corn and relieves the pain at once. Usually one plaster ends the corn. But even an "old offender" seldom requires more than a second. . . . At all drugstores.

GEN. BUTLER USED RANK TO AWAY WITNESSES

Officers Testify Colonel Was Sober.

San Diego, Cal., April 13.—(AP)—Intestations that Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler attempted to force subordinate officers into submitting written statements supporting the charge of intoxication be brought against Col. Alexander S. Williams came out in the testimony at today's session of the military court martial.

Capt. George F. Stokes, adjutant of the fourth regiment of marines, had been at the Hotel del Coronado on the night of March 6, when Col. Williams was alleged to have been drunk and that he noticed nothing unusual about the colonel's behavior.

Produces Written Statement.
He admitted that out on the hotel grounds a little later, he noticed the colonel was sick and unsteady on his feet.

The judge advocate, Capt. Leo Harbo, produced a written statement and asked the witness if he recognized it as one he had submitted to Gen. Butler. He said it was. That statement said the colonel appeared to be perfectly normal. Stokes said he understood this statement was to be submitted to "what happened in the possession of the Hotel del Coronado."

So, he said, he did not mention what he noticed outside.

What helped him to be careful, he added, was the fact that when officers submitted their written statements to Gen. Butler the statements were handed back with the remark: "You boys know what is wanted. Now, go back and write new statements."

No Lie in Statement.
"Do you mean to say," asked the judge advocate, "that Gen. Butler's attitude or instructions led you to tell a lie in your statement?"

"No, there is no lie in my statement," Lieutenant Commander Errol Will, navy surgeon, first witness for Col. Williams, testified today he noticed nothing to justify classifying the colonel as intoxicated at the Hotel del Coronado.

"Are you qualified by experience to recognize the symptoms of intoxication in a man by looking at him?" he was asked.

"I don't think any one is qualified to say a man is intoxicated on the ground of casual observation alone. One can only say a person appeared intoxicated, appeared sick or appeared 'loped.'"

WOMAN FALLS TO DEATH.
J. Williams, 60 years old, 7247 South Western street, was killed while working on the new Vienna hotel, South Michigan avenue at Sixth street, when he fell through an open elevator shaft on the fifth floor yesterday.

ROSEHILL LINE.
April 2.—We would like to see the terrible delay on the Rosehill line. It seems as if one waits for this car at least and in some cases 40 minutes before a car then sometimes it goes out stopping.

What is the attraction of the Rosehill line. Do you see what the attraction is? M. D.

April 6.—Why must we tell the world that we are alive? Do you realize the agony is thus in the poor dumb animals, blutely innocent of any sin, nevertheless give up to satisfy your palate? Kill them, then would it be more humane, and just to kill them by a quick shot in the head with a hammer before boiling them? Why not?

FRANK CLARK, 39, MUSIC PUBLISHER, COMMITTS SUICIDE

Two colored maids and his mother-in-law, Mrs. John Jacobson, heard the shot. They told the Summerdale police that Clark had been ill for several months and had suffered from insomnia.

Clark was one of the colorful figures in the song industry. For many years he was a song "booster." In 1914 he married Flo Jacobson, cabaret and radio singer. Three years later she obtained a divorce, but they were remarried in 1921. Mrs. Clark left on an errand only a few minutes before her husband shot himself.

About a year ago Clark went to New York to become general manager for Waterston, Berlin and Snyder, but soon afterward established his own firm, which had local offices in the Woods theater building.

FINDS FATHER DEAD OF STROKE.
John Miller, 73 years old, 913 Galt avenue, was found dead in his bed yesterday by his daughter, Mrs. Doris Dahlin, who told Town Police that death probably was due to paralysis.

Now's the Time to Choose Spring Coats!

A bright sunny day or two, and spring coats become an absolute necessity! These are smart—the lustrous-twill deftly braided, with squirrel collar, in black, navy, thistledown, Araby, at $87.50. The Charmen with pointed tiered cape discloses print lining. Squirrel collar, too, in black and navy, $110.

Women's Coats, Sixth Floor, North, State

Suits Distinctively Tailored, Just $35

Such a price makes it possible for every woman to include a smart suit in her spring wardrobe. These are of lorchene, single breasted. The coat of the first is braided-trimmed. The second is bound in self material. Both have the single link button, and both suits come in navy. Sizes are 33 to 40.

Women's Suits, Sixth Floor, South, State

A Miler Soeurs Replica, $52.50

Of Georgette, Scalloped

There's a fine simplicity about this Dress, typical of the wearable models you usually expect from Miler Soeurs. It is of heavy georgette, in navy or colors; its only trimming puffed scallops on blouse and skirt, and jabot over an under frill of flesh georgette. And think of so beautifully duplicated a Dress at $52.50.

For Misses—Also a Miler Soeurs Copy

In Georgette, $52.50

The double coat effect proves that two coats are smarter than one! Sketched above is this little georgette which is not tailored and yet has the charm of simplicity. Note the flared skirt and cape back, the clever front tie. In navy or the gay spring shades, it is very attractive for smart afternoon occasions.

Hand-Smocked Pongee Frocks Are $8.75

Every One Is a Value

Smocked in the Russian fashion at front, sleeves and pockets, of excellent pongee, in the clever one-piece and two-piece effects—these Frocks are unusually attractive at this price! You know, of course, the great durability of pongee, its light and airy texture which makes for coolness on the hottest days.

Four Frocks Sketched

Here Are Values In Bloomers and Petticoats

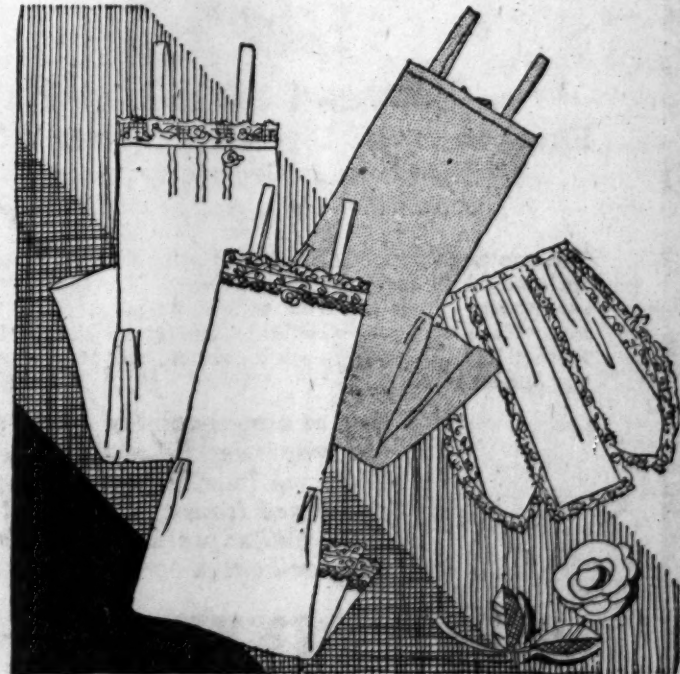

A spring wardrobe of undergarments is almost as important as new hats and frocks, for spring clothes need lingerie different from the heavy winter ones.

Sheer dresses, for instance, require shadowproof Petticoats. Here are some in crepe de chine, with hip hem, flesh or white, for $5.75.

For sports wear, radium silk Petticoats at $3.95.

SHORT BALLOT PROPOSALS WIN BY BIG LEADS

Bond Issues, Zoo, Court Amendment O. K.'d.

tors who voted for this bill predicted at the time that the next general assembly will pass legislation to encourage horse racing.

The bond issues approved provide $2,000,000 for extension of the street lighting system. This will be done in the outlying districts. About 7,000 lights will be installed upon 250 miles of streets. Another $250,000 will be used to erect stop and go lamps at about 100 street intersections in the outlying areas.

To the bureau of streets was voted $200,000. This is to be used to purchase 20 district yards for street cleaning activities and erection on half of them of ward offices.

The $1,475,000 voted to the fire department is to be used to construct seven new fire engine houses, to build 28 others to replace dilapidated structures, to make permanent repairs on 38 other stations, and to purchase one new modern fire boat.

Of the bridge bond issues totaling $2,500,000, it is planned to spend $1,500,000 for a new span across the Calumet river at One Hundred and Sixth street and $200,000 to complete the One Hundredth street bridge. Another $200,000 is to be used to make plans for new bridges across the south branch of the Chicago river when it is straightened. New approaches to the Fullerton and Diversey avenue bridge will cost $600,000 more.

Streets To Be Improved.

The $12,545,000 for the widening, opening and improving of main artery streets will be distributed as follows: Ashland avenue, $1,635,000; Western avenue, $1,000,000; La Salle street, $4,200,000; Clinton and Jefferson street system, $1,000,000; Twenty-second street, Indiana avenue system, $1,550,000; Halsted street, $350,000; Ninety-fifth street, $450,000; Milwaukee avenue, $560,000; Peterson and Ridge avenue system, $830,000; and Kimball avenue, $170,000.

The issue for the widening of La Salle street between Washington and Eugene streets permits the work to go ahead on the construction of a bridge and viaduct for which the public has provided $2,550,000.

DRY LAW HAVOC IN MINE HOME AND TENEMENT TOLD

Priest and Probation Court Worker Testify.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., April 13.—(Special.)—The ghastly narratives of young Father Kasaczyn, parish priest in the heart of the Pennsylvania anthracite region, and of Mrs. Viola Anglin, chief of probation officers of Magistrate's courts, New York City, were the features of this, the eighth day's hearing by the United States senate's special committee investigating effects of the Volstead act and the feasibility of modifying it.

Father Kasaczyn told how he had heard 3 year old babies crying for moonshine and their mothers unconcernedly acknowledging that they had given the children that poison.

Even Children Guide to Stills.

The darkest shadows in Mrs. Anglin's testimony, all of which was of a somber hue, were created by her assertion that in cigar stores, delicatessen stores, and tenement houses in the tenement area of New York City, secret stills are dripping their poison for man, woman, and child; that the very children in the streets can point you to places where the stuff is sold, and that you can open the door of hardly one home in the tenement districts without being struck with sickening whiffs from illicit stills.

Mrs. Anglin commands fourteen deputy probation officers for the borough of Manhattan, and each one has been bringing to her in recent weeks reports of from one hundred and fifty to two hundred speak-easies in his or her particular district where illicit liquor is made and sold.

Defining his purpose in offering these witnesses, Col. Julian Codman, manager of witnesses on behalf of the wets, said:

"What Father Kasaczyn and Mrs. Anglin have so vividly related today is what I have wished to emphasize throughout these hearings—the children, the children, the children! I want to open the eyes of the women of this country."

These narratives were preceded by dozens of pages of statistics and graphs offered under oath by Stanley Shirk in the name of the Moderation league of New York.

Backed by Noted Names.

Conspicuous members of this league are the Rt. Rev. Charles Fiske, Protestant Episcopal bishop of central New York; Haley Fiske, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company; Ellihu Root, formerly secretary of state; George C. Holt, former federal judge; Alexander C. Humphreys, president of Stevens university; George B. Buchanan, New York stock exchange; Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union Telegraph company; William N. Dykman, president of the New York State Bar association; William Barclay Parsons, president of the board of trustees of Columbia university; Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Carnegie Foundation for Advancement of Teaching; Prof. Michael I. Pupin, Columbia university; and William C. Redfield, former secretary of war.

Gives Elaborate Figures.

Figures submitted by Mr. Shirk on behalf of those notables were extraordinarily detailed and were from nation-wide sources. Here are two specimens:

"Arrests for drunkenness and disorderly conduct in 1914 in Chicago, 52,823; dropped in 1920, first year of constitutional prohibition, to 32,352; 'jumping outrageously,' as Mr. Shirk put it, in 1924, to 86,672.

"Arrests of drunken drivers from 1916 to 1919, in New York City, averaged 161 annually, rising in 1920, the first dry year, to 334, and then 'sky rocketing' by 1924 to 944—the bootleggers having then got their traffic thoroughly organized; resulting increase above pre-prohibition level 484 per cent.

"Chicago shows substantially the same result, arrests there of drunken drivers being 282 in 1919—and 1,523 in 1924, an increase of 440 per cent."

Defers to Baseball Game.

Masses of testimony from many parts of the country continue so to pile up on the investigators, and witnesses from points remote have been waiting so long that Senator Har-

[Rep., Okla.], who today had the exclusive privilege of presiding over himself, he being the only one of the five senatorial investigators who came today, was extremely reluctant to adjourn himself at noon. He wanted an afternoon session, but a motion of protest from witnesses and correspondents who had the opening of the "penman quest" in Washington this afternoon on their minds, caused the senator hurriedly to say, "O, I wasn't going to interfere with the baseball game!"

The wets still have six and a half of their twenty-four hours left.

As we now have passed the eighth day you can cipher it out for yourself that at the present rate of progress these hearings will run to the end of next week.

Household Stills Universal.

Young Father Kasaczyn's testimony was both a sermon and a sensation. It was peeped into inferno; as a sermon, its text was "Mamma, Moonshine!"

Those words the priest swore he heard from the lips of a three old child crying in a miner's home at Sugar Notch, his parish in the anthracite region, not far from Scranton, Pa. He rounded up on this mother with the words, "What's the idea? Did you ever give that child moonshine?"

She replied, "Well, I suppose sometimes, when we've had company."

Such was his theme—the course of the household still which has become almost universal in the mining region since prohibition went into effect. The crime, demoralization, dissipation, and the rotting of soul and body which the priest said it is causing are beyond words to describe. His whole narrative was like a running commentary of Hogarth's tragic pictures of poverty and vice in gin drinking London of the eighteenth century.

Father Kasaczyn ministers to thirty-six hundred souls. His church is the Church of the Holy Family. He has worked in the Sugar Notch community for fifteen years. He has been parish priest for eighteen years and was reared in Scranton. Sometimes his voice shook with emotion as he described conditions, wrath giving way to grief and then returning.

"Conditions," he began, "are much corrupted since prohibition. Before prohibition many of the miners would get drunk on pay day or the next day and go home and quarrel with their wives. That was bad, of course. But it blew over and at least the children did not drink."

Take Moonshine to School.

"But now we have the course of the household stills, the family stills. The children drink it, too. They carry it with them to school. Such is the immediate accessibility of the stuff to the household. Also there are poolrooms, cigar stores, lunchrooms, and candy stores where they sell liquor."

"An honest home brew their own liquor, with these results: Many wives are unfaithful to their husbands and some of them run away with the star boarder in their crowded homes, leaving their children behind."

Young girls—thirteen and fourteen years old—go out joy riding and expect to be treated with hard liquor, and, Mr. Senator, a young girl doesn't care what becomes of her after she's had hard liquor, which now is so fearfully easy for her to get.

"These youngsters, they read so much and hear so much about prohibition and about moonshine, that they think they have got to try it out for themselves."

And there it is, always by them in most of the homes!

Swollen Orphanages.

"We have an orphanage in this area. In 1917 there were forty-five orphans in it. Today there are twenty-two hundred."

"There are eighteen saloons running wide open in my town today. You can get liquor any place, any time."

"Why not," interjected Senator Harreid, "see that they are closed?"

"Ah, senator," replied the priest, "if they were closed up the people would open just so many more stills in private houses."

Again the priest reverted to the young, saying: "I often hear now of boys ten and twelve years old meeting to play dice, and the game hardly starts before one of them pulls out a flask."

The good man said he firmly believed, as the result of casual inquiries for liquor on his travels, that the prevalence of illicit liquor was great everywhere.

"When I reached my hotel in Washington," he testified, "I said to the bell boy, 'Can I get a drink?' 'Sure,' he replied, 'What are you charging?' I asked, 'Fifteen dollars a bottle,' he said."

In New York Tenement.

After Father Kasaczyn's narrative of a parish of the Holy Family and the homes of the Pennsylvania miners, Mrs. Viola Anglin took Senator Harreid, now smoking heavily, for a look into the tenement districts of New York City where, in the words of the old ballad, "poverty's tears ebb and flow."

Mrs. Anglin's work as chief of probation officers of the Magistrate's courts in New York City, and especially her work in the family court which deals with nonsupport cases, brings her in close touch with conditions of family life in the tenements.

"Before prohibition," she said, "there was very much talk of the betterment prohibition would bring in the matter of nonsupport cases. But the cases have increased, and wives and children—it is the only assumption you can come to—are suffering more."

I lay it largely to incapacity caused by the home distilled liquor to be bought at the speak-easies. Time and again judges have to order nonsupport husbands out of the court room for being drunk. These men come to court drunk even when they are on probation.

"As for the young people, my observation is that many young people that never had familiarity with liquor have it now. And children in the streets can tell you where the nearest speak-easy is. Distilling paraphernalia are on display in the show windows of the shops, and I suppose they are not there for display only."

"In thousands of tenement homes women are making hard liquor and the husband, the brother, or this brother-in-law are taking it out and selling it to the longshoremen."

THREE FACE HOLDUP CHARGE.

Samuel Settipani, 104 West Oak street; Thomas Abbate, 351 Garfield avenue, and Joseph Sturch, 1307 North Clark street, of 8025 early Sunday.

Property values always increase in communities which the "L" enters. Such was the case in Wilson Ave., Logan Square, Howard Ave., and Ravenswood. Such will be the case in Zelosky's WESTCHESTER. The terminal station here is now completed and "L" trains will be running soon.

It is but natural that after more than a Quarter Century of successful development, the William Zelosky Company should sponsor such a project.

HOUSE HEARINGS ON RUM PROBLEM START TUESDAY

Anti-Saloon League Power
Wanes, Tinkham Says.

Washington, D. C., April 11.—(Special.)—Announcement that the house alcoholic liquor traffic committee had voted to launch a general survey of conditions under prohibition at open hearings beginning next Tuesday was made today.

Representative Hudson (Rep., Mich.), chairman of the committee, said the survey might be continued throughout the summer both at open hearings and by means of questionnaires.

Anti-Saloonists' Power Wanes.
Assertion that the domination of federal legislation by the Anti-Saloon league had been broken was made by Representative Tinkham (Rep., Mass.) in a statement congratulating the senate civil service committee for its action today in shelving the Crampton civil service bill, sponsored by the Anti-Saloon league. In favor of the Tinkham bill, providing for placing the prohibition unit under civil service.

"The action of the committee in accepting the Tinkham bill in preference to the Crampton bill, which was passed by the house under the direction of Wayne B. Wheeler, highly paid professional lobbyist of the Anti-Saloon league, marks the first time in fifteen years that a committee of congress has refused to cringe and abase itself before the fanatical demands of the Anti-Saloon league," Mr. Tinkham asserted.

Attorney General Warns.
Attorney General Sargent warned law violators that his department will do all in its power to exact the severest penalties. He challenged the right of "best citizens" who condone law violations to the title of "best citizens," and urged the women attending the Woman's National Conference for Law Enforcement, which he was addressing, to make the serving of liquor at social functions so unpopular it will be stopped.

N. Y. LAWMAKERS JUMP TWO WAYS ON PROHIBITION

Albany, N. Y., April 11.—(Special.)—The Republican controlled legislature took John Barleycorn by each arm today and tried to walk him off in two directions.

The senate did its best to beat prohibition by passing the Karle liquor referendum bill by a vote of 30 to 21.

The assembly obeyed the W. C. T. U. and Anti-Saloon league by passing the Jettie prohibition enforcement measure, 18 to 12.

The Jettie bill now comes back to the senate, which defeated it before. The Karle resolution goes over to the assembly. There is going to be a dandy scrap when the lower house considers this liquor referendum for next November, which Elihu Root drafted and which would call on congress to permit each state to define intoxicating liquor for itself.

Many Druses Slain in Skirmishes with French

PARIS, April 11.—(AP)—A Havas dispatch from Beirut says: "The French operations in the Hermon area have completely succeeded. We have gained mastery of the ridge, and the Druses are undergoing constant attacks by desert Bedouins and French partisans. One column of these fugitives lost thirty killed yesterday. Several violent engagements occurred near Harim, in the course of which Chief Souhbi Sak Ban was killed."

Sale of Women's and Misses' Coats Remarkable at $59.50

SILHOUETTES which dominate mode. The fabrics most in vogue. Little individualities in detail, that give a high distinction—and tailoring which lends that indefinable, but very tangible quality called "chic." Not often are coats of this type to be had at such a moderate price as in this specially planned selling.

(a) Upstanding collar of squirrel and braiding contribute real distinction to this coat of very fine twill. The wide sleeves are a new fashion note.

(b) A youthful cape-coat is of soft-finished fabric. The becoming collar of fur blends with the lining of the cape. And tucking affects bandings.

(c) Polka-dots, white on navy blue background flash from the lining and scarf of a coat of fine twill. This coat may be worn with or without a belt.

(d) Fine tucks and a banding of fur on the collar. A tailored panel ending in pleats at the sides. These are interesting fashion details on this twill coat.

PRESBYTERY OF CHICAGO BACKS VOLSTEAD LAW

Opposes Change; Asserts Drinking Is on Wane.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

The Chicago presbytery, representing 116 churches, in annual meeting yesterday at the Kenwood church, 46th street and Greenwood avenue, voted unanimously against modification of the Volstead law. It was declared that drunkenness had everywhere decreased, and that a retreat at this time would mean not only disaster to America, but a disappointment to the other nations who are looking to this country for moral leadership.

A committee was authorized to lay plans for a national Presbyterian week to take the place of the Continent, which will cease publication next week. Resolutions of appreciation of the service of the late Cyrus H. McCormick Sr. and Nettie Fowler McCormick, who financed the paper while they lived, and of the heirs who have continued support up to the present time were adopted. The resolutions also praised Oliver R. Williamson for his work as editor.

Debate New Publication.
The debate on continuance of a publication aroused fervent oratory concerning the necessity of a successor to the Continent. Dr. David Hugh Jones of Evanston, Dr. John Timothy Stone, and Elder James B. Wootan took part.

A committee of fifteen was appointed to cooperate with the Will Hays commission on raising $15,000,000 for an endowment for pensions and relief for ministers. Similar committees are being appointed in 100 cities and the total amount will be raised by large gifts and not by ordinary church collections, it was announced.

Name Delegates to Assembly.

The Rev. Samuel W. Findley, Morgan Park church, was elected moderator for the year. The following commissioners were elected to the Presbyterian general assembly, which meets in Baltimore, Md., beginning May 27:

MINISTERS—Alfred H. Barr, Albert J. McCartney, H. A. Dalzell, Robert L. Sawyer, A. A. Althelme, A. W. Hoffman, William H. Boddy, George J. Seales, W. Edward Williams, Roy Ewing Vale, G. C. Whimsett.

ELDERS, LAYMEN—James D. Skene, Waukegan; Chandler B. Beach, Riverside; David L. Williams, Northminster; H. J. Weigle, Fair Oaks; H. W. Royce, South Shore; Raymond Henderson, Joliet Second; Jewett E. Ricker, Joliet Central; F. W. Whitten, Downers Grove; W. S. Kirkaddon, Morgan Park; Dr. E. S. Stewart, Crerar Memorial; David McLane, Fullerton Avenue.

BRITISH CABINET CALLED TO END COAL DEADLOCK

LONDON, April 13.—(AP)—For the moment interest lies rather outside than inside the house of commons, which reassembled today after Easter. It is already evident that the government is faced with an extremely difficult and delicate task in reconciling many conflicting points of view before a solution of the coal problem is possible.

The first conference between the coal mine owners and miners' representatives today ended in a deadlock. This leaves no alternative but intervention by the government, and a cabinet meeting has been called for tomorrow to consider the situation. At the conference the miners presented their detailed reply to the recommendations of the royal coal commission.

Refuse Wage Reduction.

The government had hoped that with the promise of a state loan to tide over the industry during the coming months the miners, as well as the owners, would be willing to accept the commission's recommendations. This, however, the miners declined to do.

Briefly, they will consent to no increase in working hours and no reduction of wages, while they insist the minimum wage must be settled nationally and not by districts as recommended by the commission. They declare: "No settlement is acceptable which fails to provide a wage enabling miner to get a decent standard of living."

Coal Merchants Add to Row.
No arrangement was made for a further conference, because it was found that neither side was willing to make any concessions on the question of minimum wage. The door, however, is not entirely closed to negotiations and it is thought that other meetings will be held tomorrow.
Another complication has arisen outside the ranks of those immediately concerned. The royal coal commission suggested municipal trading in coal for the benefit of consumers, but coal merchants and middlemen have fallen afoul of this suggestion, which they denounce as socialistic and unjustified interference with the rights of private traders. In various districts representative bodies of traders are adopting and sending to the government resolutions protesting in effect that "it is unfair and contrary to public policy that possible trading losses should be charged to local rates."

FALLS DEAD OF HEART DISEASE.
Joseph Szalansky, 48 years old, 3322 West Twelfth place, fell unconscious from his wagon yesterday while at Twenty-sixth and South State streets, and was found to have died of heart disease.

N. U. SOPHS MUST PAY FIDDLER FOR STEALING CANES

Unless Northwestern university's sophomores save the wounded feelings of the seniors by returning the canes they stole several weeks ago, there will be no annual soph dance on April 28. James W. Armstrong, dean of men, delivered the ultimatum. If the sophomores will deliver to him the men guilty of the theft of the woodenware he will permit the dance. Otherwise, no. The class will hold a meeting this morning to determine what shall be done.

MYSTERY VEILS BOY'S REPORTED DEATH IN RIVER

Gendele Is Victim.

Mystery surrounding the supposed drowning in the Des Plaines river on Monday night of George Gendele, son of Dr. George W. Gendele, a health inspector of Park Ridge, deepened last night upon failure of police to recover the body and upon the insistence of the Gendele family that the victim was not George Gendele.
Discussing the supposed tragedy with extreme reluctance, an aunt declared to police a disbelief that the victim was Gendele. He had no reason to wish to kill himself, she said, since he was completely recovered from a recent illness and appeared in the best of spirits when last seen, Monday.
Report Seeing Youth in River.
Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ensver, 1820 North Keeler avenue, who were driving along Touhy avenue, Park Ridge, saw a youth struggling in the river. When near the bridge, they said, they noted the boy, wearing a dark cap and a gray overcoat, seated on the railing gazing absently into the water. A moment later they heard a splash and, looking back, saw him struggling frantically against the strong current.
Belief that the victim was Gendele was formed when Dr. Gendele reported his son to police as missing. He said George had accompanied him as he

STOCKHOLDERS WANT $8,000,000 BACK AS BAKING MERGER FAILS

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—The wreckage of William B. Ward's scheme for the formation of a two billion products corporation—a scheme which went askew when the United States government stepped in and forced its dissolution—drifted into legal channels today when a wrangle between men who were to have been leading factors in the proposed combination was revealed.
The wrangle concerns itself with the alleged use by W. B. Ward of $8,000,000 of the funds of the General Baking corporation, which was destined to be one of the principal units of the food merger, to purchase in the open market the common "A" stocks of the corporation. A committee of stockholders demands that Ward reimburse the treasury in this sum and take therefor 119,000 or more "A" shares which were bought with the money.
Interests close to Mr. Ward, who is out of the city, denied the "innuendoes" contained in the stockholders' letter and said that it was an effort to gain control of the corporation by obtaining proxies.

made a call in the vicinity of the Touhy avenue bridge and had unaccountably disappeared after being left alone in the car.
Father in Nervous Collapse.
Yesterday the father was said to be in a state of nervous collapse and could not be seen when the Gendele home was visited.
County highway police spent a day in fruitless dragging of the river. The swollen condition of the stream, together with the swiftness of the current, probably resulted in the body's being carried downstream a considerable distance from Touhy avenue, in the opinion of Capt. Le Roy Davidson.

Flight Dirigible Is Again Flying North.

BY ANDREAS BACKER.
Chicago Tribune Press Service.

OSLO, Norway, April 13.—Lincoln

former Chicagoan, and

King's bay, Spitzbergen, from they will attempt to fly over the role in the dirigible Norge. On arrival in Alaska they plan to

to write an account of the flight. Mr. Ellsworth hopes the will not last more than thirty wing to the cramped quarters

the dirigible.

The American minister's lunch-today Mr. Ellsworth said he was of being an American, more than ever because he had received a commission from President to drop the American flag at

Man never will give up before secret of the polar territory was unveiled," he said. "As a result the expeditions cannot be counted offers, but I know the lives and

and the nations have paid for this expedition have not been paid in vain."

1000 KIDS YELL

THEIR JOY AS

CIRCUS GUESTS

Thousands of children, guests of the management, crowded into the auditorium yesterday afternoon and and their enthusiasm for the clowns,

and animals, the trick riding acts and the other features that make up the circus.

Many of the youngsters were orphans. Others were from homes where the price of a circus ticket had been a matter of serious consideration. They came from the Union League, the Orthopedic school,

the Lincoln, Burr and St. Alloysius church schools, and Immanuel Institute.

ARN RIFFS TO MAKE PEACE OR WAR TO FINISH

BY HENRY WALES.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

APRIL 13.—The Franco-Spanish

delegates to the Oujda peace parley and the Rifian delegates an anti-

as their initial act at the con-rebel tribes will be notified that negotiations cannot endure more a week, when the Franco-Spanish must be accepted or rejected, as Paris and Madrid governments are to launch a combined ofensive, now being prepared, against

Abdel Krim, the Rifian leader, if he does not accept.

A Quai d'Orsay spokesman this eve-

ing emphasized that the rainy season in Morocco is ending and only a few weeks are available for active campaigning before the terrific heat prevents operations.

Demand Exile for Krim.

The allied four points, including the demand for Abdel Krim's abdication and virtual exile, and the disarmament of the tribes, have been submitted to the rebel chieftain, through the aid representing him at Tangier, and the fact that he has announced his will-ness to negotiate on this basis gives rise to optimism.

The foreign office today explained that the allies do not intend to consecrate all arms from the Rif, but they insist on the surrender of artillery, machine guns, automatic rifles, and grenades, and then they intend to ration a certain number of rifles to each tribe.

It is planned to grant Abdel Krim a handsome allowance to permit him to live somewhere outside of the Rif—

possibly Tetuan or Larache. However, owing to the fear that he may foment further trouble, it is desired that he dwell in Europe.

The French campaign, if the peace parley fails, will be directed due north,

the columns driving forward, traversing the Spanish zone in parallel lines across the Rif to the Mediterranean, where they can receive supplies from naval forces. In the meantime, the Spaniards have started east and west from Tetuan and Melilla, over-ir-ring the entire insurgent zone, with airplanes reconnoitering and bombing continually.

Man Killed as He Steps

from Train in Wilmette

George Schager, watch repairman of 5407 South Avers avenue, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when he stepped from the wrong side of a northbound North Shore train at Lake avenue in Wilmette and was struck by a south bound train. He died an hour later in the Evanston hospital.

DANIEL M'CARTHY IS RE-ELECTED BY PLUMBERS' UNION

Daniel J. McCarthy was re-elected business agent of the Chicago Journe-men Plumbers' union by acclamation last night at a meeting of union plumbers in Union Temple at Ogden avenue near Washington boulevard.

For several weeks McCarthy has been on the west coast for his health. He sent a telegram thanking the members for displaying confidence in him.

By returning him to office when illness compelled his absence. The election marks McCarthy's sixth year in the office.

William Hart was re-elected president, Bernard L. Cruickshank secretary, and Charles Mulcahy, Edward Blake and Michael Mullen busness agents.

TRAIN KILLS FARMER AND WIFE.

Kirklin, Ind., April 13.—(AP)—John T. Price,

51, and his wife, Hannah Price, 34, were blind today when a Monon passenger train demolished their automobile at a crossing four and one-half miles northeast of here.

Price and his wife lived on a farm near the crossing. They were married only two weeks ago.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Face Young

"Brings Out the Hidden Beauty"

If every woman knew of the wonderful rejuvenating and beautifying qualities of Mercolized Wax, druggists could not begin to supply the demand for this remarkable product. Just think! You apply the wax to an aged, faded, withered skin, and that skin gives way to one of youthful loveliness, clear, soft, delicately tinted.

How is this accomplished? By actually peeling off the defective outer skin which covers up the true skin underneath. This is a painless process, for the thin veil of outer skin has no nerves. Nature renews complexion in exactly the same way, constantly shedding tiny particles of the surface covering, or seer skin. But in time this process slows up. Then Mercolized Wax comes to the rescue and hastens the skin shedding. This is the secret of its marvelous success. So if your skin is old-looking, sallow, over-ripe, blotchy, parched, rough, oily—the stubborn sear skin—just peel it off! Get rid of it! Have you pimples, freckles, moth patches, liver spots? Peel them off!

Obtain an ounce of Mercolized Wax from your druggist or department store today, use as directed—and join the vast multitude who are praising the virtues of this wonder-working product.

TRIBESMEN HAIL MUSSOLINI AS A ROMAN WAR LORD

Premier Follows Trail of Ancient Emperor.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

TRIPOLI, April 13.—Premier Benito Mussolini followed the tracks of his ancestors southward toward the Libyan desert today to find at the summit of Jebel Gharian an inscription left by the emperor of the second century A.D., Lucius Septimius Severus.

At the top of this range dominating the coastal plain Premier Mussolini's soldiers had erected another inscription recording the successes of the 1911 campaign and in the years immediately following the world war.

Native Throgs Greet Premier.

At Gharian the Arabs from miles around gathered to greet the premier. They shade, from the white, pure sand of the desert, the various tones of green to the deeper black of the Nubians, they lined the approach to the town. Companies of magnificent spahis were drawn up to act as a guard of honor.

The Arabs, Berbers, and Nubians came to see a Roman leader, for the competition has grown in the last few years that the Italian premier is a reincarnation of one of the great Roman military leaders. On his return trip Sig. Mussolini halted by the rough hewn stone marking the scene of a skirmish in 1922 in which an Italian motor truck was captured and four soldiers killed by a band of 100 rebels. The Duce placed a candle on the headstone, lighted it, and knelt for a moment in silent prayer, while the movie cameras ground out a record of the event for the world.

To Plead Immunity.

ROME, April 13.—(AP)—Lord Ashbourne and Lady Constance Gibson have chosen Deputy Enrico Ferri as counsel for their sister, Violet Albina Gibson, who last Wednesday shot and wounded Premier Mussolini.

Deputy Ferri is considered one of the greatest exponents of Italian criminal law. Lord Ashbourne and Lady Constance hope he will succeed in proving Miss Gibson irresponsible, owing to her mental condition, and obtain her acquittal at the conclusion of the preliminary investigation. She would thus avoid being brought to trial, being turned over instead to her relatives for proper care.

PREDICT CLAIMS BOARD MEETING IN MEXICO CITY

Mexico City, April 13.—El Sol, a semi-official government organ, says Dr. Rodrigo Octavio, neutral chairman of the international claims commission, will call a meeting next week in Mexico City. It is understood he has the backing of the Mexican members of the commission and expects an understanding from the American members, who are claiming damages for the murder of Americans by U.S. soldiers. On the other hand, it is reported here that Washington is unwilling to concur with the meeting, while Dr. Octavio remains referee of the commission.

Vicent Arko, 25 years old, 330 South Morgan street, was arrested last night when he had fired shots at Anthony Link, 22 years old, 133 Aberdeen street, after the two had quarreled over a woman in front of Arko's home. Both shots missed Link.

KIDNAPED GIRL FOUND; POSSES HUNT ABDUCTOR

Fond du Lac, Wis., April 13.—(AP)—Frances Webb, six year old Neenah, Wis., girl, who was kidnaped early today, was found late tonight at St. Peter, Wis., a hamlet seven miles west of here.

She had been left at a St. Peter home by a man who asked the householder to care for her while he took his wife to a hospital. The girl was uninjured. Poses are hunting for the kidnaper who jured the girl into an automobile.

William Steffen, tavernkeeper at St. Peter, notified Sheriff A. A. Briggs of Fond du Lac county, who verified the identity of the girl and set out in pursuit of the kidnaper.

HUSBAND SUES FRED ESTY FOR LOSS OF LOVE

Herman L. Williams, a druggist at 2001 North Clark street, filed suit yesterday against Fred L. Esty, president of the Central Bank Note company, 219 North Albany avenue, charging alienation of the affections of Williams' wife, Marie. According to Attorney William B. Gemmill, representing the plaintiff, Mrs. Williams was secretary for Esty and accompanied him on several tours. She recently sued her husband for divorce, charging cruelty.

Williams' wife, Marie, was arrested last night when he had fired shots at Anthony Link, 22 years old, 133 Aberdeen street, after the two had quarreled over a woman in front of Arko's home. Both shots missed Link.

In they go—out they come Dishes almost wash themselves in CHIPSO!

You'll find a world of difference between Chipso dishwashing and old-fashioned dishwashing!

Chipso's rich suds foam up at the touch of hot water. Grease dissolves like magic and food particles fairly slide off into the thick, white suds. The dishes almost seem to wash themselves!

Chipso is the perfect household soap—flaked thin for quick suds—and white, of course.

It is quick—but safe too. It washes your dishes without hurting your hands—does your washing without hurting your clothes.

And how Chipso saves your time and strength on washday! It does away with chipping and melting of hard cake soap, hard rubbing, every-week boiling. Chipso's instant suds soak the dirt loose.

Expensive? Not in the least. There is enough soap in one of the big Chipso boxes to wash your dishes for a month—or to do 6 big washings.

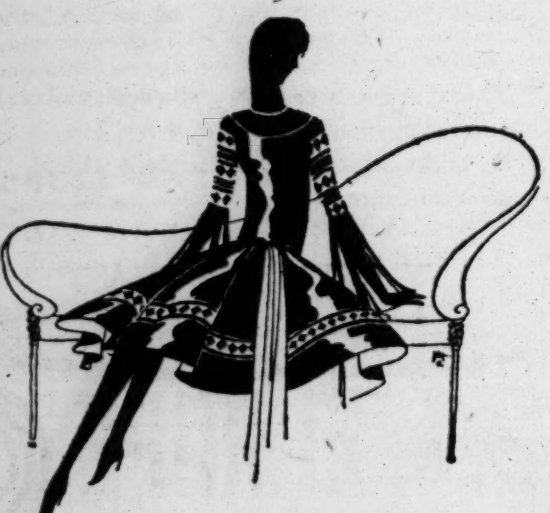

Order one of the big blue-and-orange packages from your grocer today. To try it, buy the 10¢ size—then regularly buy the big size.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer, if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels, and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless "no good" feeling, constipation or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective results. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

BY DON MAXWELL.

(Sports Editor.)

It's a game of hero worship.

When the flood of fans rolled over the broken strands of fence near the score board the play stopped. Finally Eddie Collins led a half dozen of his players out to clear the outfield.

And everywhere that Eddie went the fans went, too.

Collins was a magnet. That crowd was his. Had he chosen, he might have led them in a frontal attack on an army. A handful of policemen waved their clubs and shouted until they were hoarse without any appreciable effect. Eddie waved one hand and the crowd melted away. He turned his back and the crowd swarmed after him.

Baseball is a game of heroes.

George Sisler walked to the plate waving three bats. He was the leader of the team that contested the right of the Sox to victory and a perfect day. He epitomized the opposition.

He was away from the home crowd.

Yet Sisler drew as much applause as any one. Collins and Ted Lyons got big hands, and there were seven other

Sox players who didn't. The cheers they missed went to Sisler. And that, too, was a token of hero worship.

Steadily the fellow who works the score board kept writing 0-0 in the inning by inning story of the Washington-Philadelphia game. Finally there were nine innings, each inning with that nothing to nothing tale. Then came the tenth and the eleventh and the twelfth. And the story was the same.

"It's Johnson, old Walter, pitching for the Senators." The word spread throughout the stands.

At last came the final score. Old

Walter, the Big Train, had won. The crowd cheered another hero.

To one of the Sox rookies came a chance to fill a hero rôle. Three of the White Sox players were on bases.

Guiley, the newcomer, was at bat. And the crowd was shouting for a hit. He swung at the first ball so hard he almost fell. He looked as a second bat-tment meant to the husky southern youth who was playing his first major league game in Comiskey park. And they were pulling for him.

He hit the next one high and to the right.

"He's out," the fellow at our elbow said, "but you can say he tried."

Charles Comiskey, the oldest Roman of them all, saw part of the game.

Kenosaw Mountain Lendar, chief of baseball, occupied a box near third base.

In the seventh inning the score board showed Cincinnati leading the Cubs,

6 to 1. A few minutes later the operators jested with the fans. The scores of the eighth, ninth, and tenth innings came over the wire at the same time.

But the score board on the board several minutes before the final tally.

When the board showed the Cubs had tied the score at 6-6 the fans howled loud and long. When the final score went up they howled again, but not for long.

The last play of the game was made and the Sox turned toward their dugout with the season's first victory. They had to run, for thousands dashed after them. There wasn't any good reason for the fans' action. They must have known they couldn't get past the guard. The players had but the guaranteed to hear their cheers. But no time to time toward the dugout as if they were a charmed spot.

And the reason for that, too, was hero worship.

The sixteen teams of the major leagues have hit the pennant rally.

Only two will reach the hilltop—that called victory. And throughout the long, hot summer months the fans will be passing through the turnstiles, lured by the desire to see the play of their baseball heroes.

BURRONE HERE TO MEET BURNS IN RING FRIDAY

Lynch and Alte Finish Hard Drill Today.

Vic Burrone, New York bantamweight who meets Tiger Jack Burns in one of the ten round bouts at East Chicago Friday night, arrived in Chicago yesterday morning. Burrone is a hard hitting aggressive fighter who likes to trade punches at long range. He can take a lot of punishment and appears in shape to go ten rounds at a fast clip.

Andy Martin in City. Burns is the boxer who gave Clever Sencio such an interesting match in the same ring a short time ago. Burns is also aggressive and likes to carry the fight to his opponent. Tiger is also a puncher and this bout should be one of the best on the card.

Andy Martin of Boston, who meets Harold Smith in the semi-final of ten rounds, stepped off the train yesterday morning and worked out in the afternoon. Martin comes west with a good record and Smith must be at his best to beat or draw with the easterner.

Lynch and Alte Work Out. California Joe Lynch and Merle Alte of Indianapolis, who meet in the wind-up, went through another strenuous day of work and will finish the harder part of training today.

Clever Sencio and Bud Taylor, who meet in the feature of Frank Mulhern's show at Milwaukee Monday night, put in a busy afternoon yesterday. Both boxed with their sparring partners and each intends to step at least six rounds with their sparring mates this afternoon.

Edie Kane, manager of Shuffie Callahan, has accepted two dates for the Chicago Heights welterweight. On April 23, Shuffie will appear against an opponent yet to be selected at East Chicago. A week later he will appear in Omaha against a fighter whom the promoters have not named.

Sammy Mandell, the Rockford lightweight, also under the management of Edie Kane, will leave for the coast Friday or Saturday. Kane asserted there is not enough work in the middle west for Sammy, who can secure plenty of matches on the coast.

Edie Shea, west side featherweight, and Manager Ray Alvin left last night for Akron, O., where Edie meets Phil Verdi of Rochester, N. Y., in a ten round non-decision bout tomorrow night. Following this fracas, Shea and his manager go to Philadelphia, where Shea will clash with California Joe Lynch in a twelve round contest to a referee's decision on April 21. The weight for both bouts will be 125 pounds.

BIKE FANS DIG UP MONEY TO PAY BERLIN RIDERS

BERLIN, April 12.—(AP)—A threatened strike of the riders in the six day bicycle race today was averted when wealthy sport followers put up a guarantee to pay the racers, who have been worried by the poor attendance and the disappearance of the promoter, who is said to have lost $10,000.

At the end of the 12th hour, the French team, Sergeant-Louet, was in the lead with 1,825 miles and 278 points. The American team of Beckman and Eaton was one lap behind, but in second place with 213 points, and Joffried and Junge, Germans, were third.

OSBORNE STARTS TRAINING WORK

Chapel Hill, N. C., April 12.—(Special)—Harold Osborne, who made the best all round track record in the 1924 Olympic games, arrived here today from Florida and started training for the central championships in Chicago on April 23. While here Osborne will assist Coach Bob Peters, director of athletics at the University of North Carolina.

Bird Houses Need Spring Cleaning as Well as Homes

BY BOB BECKER.
URORA, Ill.—(To the Editor.)—Should a wren nesting box be cleaned out every year? Two years ago we had a pair of wrens in one of our nesting boxes in the back yard, and the birds raised two families, the last one consisting of seven little ones. Last year the wrens came back and were in the yard around the house, but did not build. Later in the summer another pair visited the nesting box, worked two days carrying sticks into the box, but did not build. Some say clean the nesting box and others tell me not to. Could you give me information on this point. MRS. ADOLINE CRAWFORD.

Answer.—It is a good idea to clean out nesting boxes for wrens each season. If you don't do this the boxes are going to get pretty well filled up by the birds, and each pair of wrens can be counted on to haul into the box a pretty good sized pile of twigs. Since the bird houses should be cleaned out, better save time and trouble by using only those with removable tops, which make housecleaning an easy job.

This department has prepared a booklet, "Birds and Bird Houses," which will be of help to you if you want more information on wrens' nesting boxes and the habits of the wrens. The booklet is on sale at The Tribune public service office, 11 South Dearborn. Cost, 10 cents; by mail, 13 cents.

Experts of Headlock to Clash Tonight

Tony Hadick and Lee Bumble, local 180 pounders, who gave Johnny Meyers, the middleweight champion, hard battles, will meet in the windup at Broadway armory tonight. It will be a finish match, best two in three falls, and the principals have agreed to scale 160 pounds at 3 o'clock.

Both are head lock specialists and will depend upon the bone crusher for the desired result. Lou Talaber, former middleweight champion, and Tommy Cannon will meet in the semi-final. Jack Spring and Pete Zbyzsko will open the show in a one fall match, to be followed by another one fall struggle between Johnny Logas and George Peters.

Joe Malawec, the Polish grappler from Ulica, N. Y., has been signed for the semi-final to the Lewis-Drenna match at Dexter park pavilion Monday night. Two other bouts will complete the card.

Nick Latze, who recently defeated Stanislaus Zyzanski, will meet Ernie Johnson at the North Side Turner hall tonight in a finish match. Two other bouts complete the card.

Louis Sforzato, Italian strong man, will be an added attraction at the Star and Garter Friday night, where Jack Cherry and George Hills meet in the feature.

Lon Talaber has been matched to meet Carl Van Buren, Canadian middleweight champion, in a finish match at Oakbrook, Wis., on April 29.

Erickson, Full Back, Named Captain of St. Patrick Team. John Erickson, full back on the St. Patrick football team last season, was elected to lead the eleven next fall. He was also named to lead the heavy-weight basketball team. Joe Meyers will captain the lightweights.

Sommerfeld Pitches Lane to 7-2 Win Over Hyde Park. Lane Tech's powerful baseball team defeated Hyde Park, 7 to 2, at Lincoln park yesterday. The south sliders were helpless before the hurrying of Sommerfeld, who allowed only two hits.

JUVENILE STAKE AT BOWIE WON BY RED ROCKET

Havre De Grace Season to Open Today.

Bowie, Md., April 12.—(Special)—Red Rocket, the Pastime stable's brown son of Mont O'Riel, and Edna Marie ran within two-fifths of a second of the track record to win the first running of the Bowie Kindergarten stakes, the new juvenile feature that was the leading number on the getaway card here this afternoon.

Under top weight of 119 pounds and with Willie Smith in the photo's seat, Red Rocket was in front all the way, winning easily in 48.1-5. He was second choice in a field of five. The race was worth $1,350 to the owner of the winner.

With the sun shining intermittently, although there was still a chill in the air, a large crowd turned out for the last day of the Bowie meeting. The spring season at Havre De Grace opens tomorrow.

NILES TO WIDEN PAVEMENT ON HARLEM AVENUE

First Step Toward 40-Foot Roads. BY J. L. JENKINS. Forty foot highway pavements for Cook county towns and villages were officially launched yesterday when authorities of Niles, Ill., announced that the village will add ten feet of pavement to the 30 foot slab which will be laid on Harlem Avenue by the Cook county highway department in its big 1925 building program. The village plans to lay its ten foot pavement strip on the east side of the new road and to appeal to other building agencies for the additional 10 foot strip on the west side, which will bring the total pavement width to 40 feet.

The Harlem avenue improvement, one of the most important planned in this year's Cook county program, will lay a twenty foot concrete pavement for twenty-five miles, on a direct north and south line through the county from 135th street on the south to connect with the Milwaukee avenue road on the north. The road will be 40 feet wide, and will provide a new through route for nine villages and towns in the county. Niles is the first municipality to make provision for the widening of the new 20 foot pavement in order to make it serve four lines of moving traffic.

Another piece of cheerful highway news comes from Egypt with the announcement that five miles of the most difficult pavement job on Illinois state highway 1 will be tackled by state contractors tomorrow. This cap on the Illinois State Highway 1, where bottom lands and a black slough have held up improvement work. A dozen motor trucks and a large force of men will attack the improvement, grading and grading the cap this spring. Concrete pavement will be laid as soon as the grading settles.

SEVENTH RACE—6 furlongs, 3 year olds and up, 6 furlongs. 1. Red Rocket, 119 lb. (W. Smith), 48.1-5. 2. Edna Marie, 118 lb. (J. Jones), 48.6-0. 3. Star, 117 lb. (J. Jones), 49.0-0. 4. Star, 117 lb. (J. Jones), 49.0-0.

EIGHTH RACE—Claiming, 5/8 furlongs, 3 year olds and up, 6 furlongs. 1. Red Rocket, 119 lb. (W. Smith), 48.1-5. 2. Edna Marie, 118 lb. (J. Jones), 48.6-0. 3. Star, 117 lb. (J. Jones), 49.0-0. 4. Star

HEAT SOARS ON BUYING CREDITED TO LIVERMORE

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Congestion in May wheat is becoming more apparent, and with heavy buying credited to short covering in the market, the price moved up 5c over Monday's close to a high of $1.64 1/2 in the face of immense profit taking and closed 4 1/2c higher at $1.63 1/2. Deformed deliveries gained 2 1/2c with July $1.39 1/2 and 92c, and September $1.34 1/2 and 92c, both finishing at the best figures of the day. Corn was 1 1/2c higher in sympathy with wheat with May 72 1/2c and 72c, and July 77 1/2c and 77c. Oats gained 1/2c higher with May 42 1/2c and 42c, and July 42 1/2c and 42c, while rye was 2 1/2c higher with May 91 1/2c and 91c, and July 92 1/2c and 92c. Houses with eastern shipments that usually act for Livermore, a leading New York speculator, started to buy wheat at the start and local traders have been bullish for sometime also took hold on a large scale. The volume of business was immense at times, and sellers of wheat had to protect themselves a few minutes after the opening. Many of the pit element were short overnight. Stop loss orders added to the wild advance, and at times prices in various parts of the pit were 9c or more apart.

Foreign wheat markets were strong with Liverpool 1 1/2c higher at the last May Buenos Aires gained 2 1/2c with May $1.45 and June $1.47 1/2. Winnipeg late in the day reported around 1,000,000 bu. Manitoba had been sold to exporters, while the seaboard reported 400,000 bu. largely durums, had been sold abroad. The statistical position is attracting much attention now, especially the small stock of contract grades here, as premiums on cash wheat were firm in a majority of markets. Crop reports taken as a whole, were slightly less favorable, with Missouri estimated to have a prospect of only 15-20,000 bu. or about 20,000,000 bu. less than normal, and there were further claims of dry weather from the American northwest which, while delaying seeding, will furnish much needed moisture. World's available supplies decreased 4,449,000 bu. for the week, and are $1,102,000 bu. or 23,000,000 bu. less than last year.

Corn Closes at Top. There was little pressure on corn, and with wheat strong an advance was easily attained. Country advice indicated a light movement of cash grain was to be expected, due to the delay in field work. Weather conditions were more favorable. Oats held within a range of 1/2c with trade mainly in exchanging between May and July at 1/2c difference. Commission houses sold May around 42c, checking the advance. Seeding has started again in the west. There were no indications of export business in rye, and the strength was largely borrowed from wheat. Flaxseed in Buenos Aires closed unchanged to 1/2c higher with May $1.55 1/2 and July $1.57 1/2.

CASH GRAIN NEWS

Report sales of 400,000 to 500,000 bu. largely durums, were reported at the seaboard, and there were numerous bids in the market early somewhat below a working basis. Messages from the seaboard late in the day expressed doubts as to whether foreigner would follow such a sharp upturn in values as was witnessed yesterday. There was a little business in coarse grains, but quantities were not given. Winnipeg claimed around 1,000,000 bu. Manitoba had been sold to exporters. Chicago handlers sold 3,000 bu. wheat, 30,000 bu. corn, 85,000 bu. oats, 2,000 bu. rye, and 10,000 bu. barley to the domestic trade. Milling demand for cash wheat showed improvement, with the basis here unchanged to 1/2c higher, with No. 2 red 60c and No. 2 hard 74 1/2c over May. The Omaha basis was unchanged to 1/2c higher, while Kansas City was firm. At Minneapolis spring wheat sold readily, full prices, with shipping sales of 100,000 bu. including some for opening of navigation. Demand for cash corn was only fair and the basis unchanged to 1/2c lower, with No. 2 grades 14 1/2c, No. 4 grades 13 1/2c, No. 6 grades 12 1/2c, and No. 8 grades 11 1/2c. Outside markets were unchanged to 1/2c higher. Official receipts of grain at Chicago Tuesday: Wheat, 1,000,000 bu.; corn, 57,000 bu.; oats, 42,000 bu.; rye, 6,000 bu.; barley, 6,000 bu. Range of cash grain prices in leading markets follows:

New York, April 12.—(AP)—Stock prices displayed a complete reversal of form in today's market, selling off sharply during the morning when pressure was renewed against the speculative industrial, then rallying briskly during the afternoon. Closing quotations were generally higher, net gains of one to nearly six points being spread over a long list.

A softening of money rates stimulated the demand for stocks, which came largely from the short interest. Call money renewed at 5 per cent and then dropped to 4 1/2. While bear traders succeeded in uncovering a number of new weak spots during the morning, there were indications that many issues, particularly in the motor and merchandising groups, had been overvalued. Trading increased in volume, the day's turnover exceeding 1,415,000 shares.

Standard Industrials recovered. Standard Industrials displayed good recuperative power, U. S. Steel common showed a net gain of over 1 point at 118 1/2, after selling down to within a point of 115 1/2. General Motors, Ford and Chrysler rallied from 9 1/2 to 10 1/2, where it was up 1 1/4 on the day. General Electric rallied from 28 1/2 to 29 1/2, up 1 1/2.

Local transactions showed outstanding strength. Interborough Rapid Transit soared nearly 6 points to 18 1/2 and Brooklyn and Manhattan Transit, Third Avenue Railway and Manhattan Motored Guaranty closed 2 to 3 points higher.

The short interest in the motor was quick to retreat on the first sign of strong buying power. Hudson rallied from a low of 64 to 68, General Motors from 11 1/2 to 11 3/4, and Mack Trucks from 10 1/2 to 10 3/4, all closing near the top.

Rails Are in Demand. Publication of unusually favorable 1935 earnings statements by several of the leading railroad systems brought fresh buying into the railroad shares. This was particularly apparent in such issues as Atlantic Coast Line, New York Central, Southern Railway and Union Pacific, all of which closed 1/2 to 3/4 points higher. Erie issues also registered moderate improvement.

mistakes and confusion, there would be unavoidable losses.
One of the functions of life insurance in modern business is to provide liquid funds to tide over such emergencies. I have made analyses for many well known men. Ten minutes will provide facts for a scientific application to your own case.

LOSS OF SHORT HAUL BUSINESS

BY O. A. MATHER.

The short haul business of the railroads is threatened with extinction by the automobile and motor bus unless such competition is met by use of motor driven rail cars. This prediction was voiced yesterday by the presidents of two of the largest midwest systems to their stockholders."Our passenger revenue from intrastate business last year was 25% per cent less than in 1917," President Fred W. Sargent of the Chicago and Northwestern said. "During the same period registered motor vehicles increased 197% per cent not including motor trucks. In 1918 there was an automobile for every 18 persons in our territory; today there is an automobile for every five persons.
Our largest decline has been in Iowa, where last year we carried 23 passengers for every 100 in 1917."

Reduce Trains on Branches.

"The largest per capita ownership exists in Iowa, where they have an automobile for every 2.3 persons. It is estimated that 80 per cent of the farmers' automobiles will therefore be noted that a considerable business has been lost because of private ownership of automobiles."

Must Meet Competition.

"We must meet this situation we have endeavored to take of passenger trains branch lines where we were out of pocket by running trains. We have met serious opposition and have been able to reduce passenger train mileage only 12 per cent since 1917. It is doubtful if the short haul passenger business can be recovered by the railroads against the privately owned automobile. There now are approximately 2,000 miles of motor routes paralleling our rails."The Rock Island report shows net income available for dividends at $6,965-132, equivalent after preferred dividends of $4.15 a share on the common stock, compared with $4.30 a share in 1924. No common dividends were paid, but $3,238-947 was added to surplus.The Southern Pacific report shows net income for 1925 at $27,016,216, equivalent to $10.18 a share on its capital stock, compared with $10.24 a share in 1924.
The decline in net income was $2,574,611, this being due to a larger increase in expenses than was shown in operating revenues, which were the largest in the history of the system at $299,974,553.New Cornelia Copper Increases Its DividendAnnouncements made by four corporations featured yesterday's dividend news.
The New Cornelia Copper Company placed its common stock on a $1.40 annual basis, with the declaration of a 40 cent quarterly dividend. In the previous quarter 20 cents was paid and before that the payment was 25 cents quarterly. A stock dividend of 14 1/2 per cent was declared by Electric Refrigerator corporation in addition to an initial quarterly disbursement of 10 cents. A dividend of $2.25 on arrears of the preferred stock of the new stock. Directors of the National Biscuit company increased the annual dividend basis on the common stock from $3 to $4 a share with the declaration of a quarterly payment of $1.

WE WILL INSTALL THE SUPERIOR OIL BURNER

for $250
COMPLETE

with 250 gallon tank

Price Advances June 1st

This Is a Special Springtime Advertising Offer Good Only Until June 1st. Installations After That Date Will Be Made at $275

These prices apply only in the Chicago territory.
Installation elsewhere is slightly higher in price.

HOT WATER STEAM
WARM AIR Heating Plants

The installation of the Superior Oil Burner requires but a few hours' time and no inconvenience during installation in cold weather.

NOW you, too, can have the comfort of oil heat at a cost that requires no big outlay of cash. Tremendous volume and remarkable simplicity of construction in the Superior plants make this offer the opportunity you have waited for.

You want the comfort of oil heat. Everybody wants it. The health and comfort of your family demand it. Here it is at a price every family can afford.

Nowhere in all the world can you find this offer duplicated.

Every wife—every husband—every store owner knows and desires the convenience and never-failing warmth of oil heat. High cost alone has been the only handicap that has caused thousands of home and building owners to postpone oil-heat installation. Now that handicap is forever removed.

The Superior Oil Burner at $250 Complete Is Revolutionary

All that any oil burner can do is to keep your house comfortably and uniformly warm in all weather and do it quietly, dependably and economically.

Why pay more for an oil burner when you can now secure the Superior Oil Burner for $250 complete?

Superior is trouble-proof and requires no noisy, motor-driven fan which adds from $30 to $40 per year to gas or electricity bills.

Patented principles, a departure from the old gravity type—and simple, sturdy construction in our own plants permit remarkable manufacturing savings which are unmistakably reflected in this sensational offer.

We believe that the Superior Oil Burner has no equal at its price—or double its price!

No Gas—No Electricity—No Motor—No Fan—No Noise—No Carbon—No Smoke—No Ashes—Absolutely Safe! Even Heat!

Established Dealers Are Needed Now to Represent the Superior Oil Burner

The Superior Oil Burner is revolutionizing the oil-burner market and we do not believe its combination of quality, simplicity, service and economy is obtainable elsewhere.
It does all that any oil burner does; costs little to install; costs little to operate; its construction, materials and dependability are guaranteed.

Thousands of families will write or phone for demonstration and installation. If you are a responsible dealer and wish to reap your share of Superior profits and goodwill mail the coupon.

NO COMPLICATIONS
NO complicated system of operation exists in the Superior. Superior relies upon no outside source of power—electricity, gas or water; no power bills for you to pay every month. The warmth, health and safety of your home in all weather and under all conditions are completely under your own control.

ECONOMY—SAFETY
When you install the Superior Oil Burner in your home you have secured a heating plant that will serve you conveniently, economically, safely and comfortably in all weather. It will never wear out.
All Superior Oil Burners are equipped with an Underwriters' Approved Safety Valve.

NOT A GRAVITY BURNER
Don't mistake Superior for a gravity type burner. The Superior vaporizes the oil—before ignition—and automatically mixes it with air, forming perfectly combustible gas.

Combustion is at grate level, where it was intended to be by the furnace or boiler manufacturers.
Heat is not forced under heavy air pressure by use of fan motor or blower. The liquid fuel is vaporized before it leaves its outlet into the fire bowl. The natural pressure of heated air directed through two horns breaks up the already separated oil vapor into a combustible mixture that burns thoroughly. The force of the super-heated air does what atomizing mechanisms do on more costly burners.

GET THE PROOFS
After all, the measure by which the quality of every product may be judged is by the satisfaction it has earned with its users; judge Superior by that measure. We invite you to phone or write any number of those who have experienced Superior comfort. Satisfy yourself first that oil-heat is the ideal type of heating service. Investigate the oil-burner market.
Then, after you have acquainted yourself with all the facts, study Superior advantages.

Install "Superior" Now—Test its merits during the remaining cold months—Pay for it on our Easy Payment Plan.

Don't buy more coal for that coal-eating furnace. Aren't you tired of its back-breaking shaking—its ashes that must be carried out and the unsightly mess of your basement?

If Superior were high-priced—untested—expensive to operate, you might well hesitate. But for $250 and with the endorsement of hundreds of families like yours, no home or store owner can afford to be without the convenience and multiplied advantages of Superior heat.

Let us install a Superior Unit Now. Pay a small deposit. Use and test its service during April and May. Pay for it upon our simplified installment plan. Remember your satisfaction is guaranteed. Parts guaranteed as to material and workmanship for 4 years.

If you are one of the thousands who have decided that this is the last winter you will suffer the curse of coal and ashes and temperamental furnaces, and would like to have the facts and only the facts—concerning the luxury of oil-heating in general and Superior service in particular—simply write your name and address on the coupon—tear out and mail.

$100, $200, or $300 in coal.

"The Man Who Sold His Burner Said So"

"I moved from one satisfactory and successful operation. The first seven years in my six-room bungalow and thenceforth it was sub-zero weather. We had a hard time getting 70 degrees in the house.
Last winter in mid-November I could get 50 degrees if I wanted to, and I did.
"The dirt at the end of my line, and what appeared to me must be the utter simplicity of the Superior Oil Burner—practically nothing to wear out.
"I'm a man who sold the old burner and the new kind of burner, and I would never go back to coal again. I've cleaned up my basement and painted it white, and I could live down there as well as upstairs.
"I don't think you'll ever regret putting in an oil burner. My oil bill for 1921-1922 was $280. For 1922-1923, $210; my oil bill for 1923-1924 was $180. No work, and con-fort and cleanliness."

"Bottom Flame Heat Burns and Boils"

"We have installed the Superior Oil Burner and it works like a charm. We have nine rooms and a bathroom and find that same very comfortable with a bottom flame heat. Mr. Weiss, who installed the burner, is now somewhat interested in the agency and has written to me to ask me to recommend it to anyone desiring to buy an oil burner.
"As far as we are concerned we would be glad to trade with any of our neighbors and friends who have other types."

"Burner Has Never Failed"

"The Superior Oil Burner that we have installed in our two-story building has done all that they claimed for it. It has kept our building warm and comfortable all winter never failed to work, and we are proud to recommend it to anyone desiring to buy an oil burner.
"As far as we are concerned we would be glad to trade with any of our neighbors and

"Would Not Part With It"

"I found it entirely satisfactory. Heat before we were able to keep our house at such a uniform heat in all kinds of weather. Would not part with it. No coal—no dirt—no work.
Most strongly recommended."

"Well Pleased With Superior"

"We were very well pleased with the Superior Oil Burner last winter. We have never before had in a satisfactory way.
The cost of all was $250.00 which was out of cash, but we had it was worth the difference.
"I used the burner last winter and was well satisfied with it."

The Adopted Wife

By Amelia Rises
(Pseudonym of Trumbull)

SYNOPSIS

Celia Gibbs, whose mother died when she was an infant, is left an orphan at fourteen. Her father, who was an artist, but who was known more for his eccentricities than for his paintings. He was of a cold, brutal disposition and treated his only child as a slave.

After her father's death she is astonished to learn that Gibbs has bequeathed to her care and charity the orphanage which she had founded. She places her daughter in a convent in France. When the orphanage is closed, Laura takes Celia into her home to live. Laura's daughter marries an orphanage boy. Shortly afterward Laura dies. In desperation over Celia's situation, Hilary proposes that she marry him in order that she may live in his home with her mother. She is satisfied with the arrangement until she overhauls some old letters and finds her mother's "white marriage," and for the first time she learns that her father had left her penniless and that she is living on Hilary's charity. She is deeply disturbed by this knowledge and she grows restless. When Padraic O'Shea, a young musician, pays her marked attention she is flattered by it and encourages him. He suggests that she marry him, and he also suggests that she divorce him. She is hurt at the suggestion and quarrels with Hilary. He asks her to take three days to think the matter over when deciding what she shall do.

INSTALLMENT XLV. THE DOG IN THE MANGER.

Disconsolately Hilary reflected that his very anxiety to shield Celia, to end an impossible situation by urging her to decide it one way or the other, might have given her an idea of undue haste on his part, of impatience with her natural hesitation, even of desire to be done once for all with the unsettling of his habitual life.

And wasn't this in fact the truth? He was anxious to get it over, but all his reasons were not known to her. And among them was his wish to be done with the pain of parting with her. And he told her this, however, he felt that he would have been unpardonably selfish.

His relation to her in fact had all the disadvantages of a father's, with none of the compensations. When he gave her up to be some one else's wife, he said farewell to her, it would be for good—at least he hoped it would be for good, while a real father could have looked forward to seeing her again, and to the happiness of having his future grandchildren about him.

This last idea made him flinch. He had never cared for children, and the thought of having Celia's and Padraic O'Shea's children about him was particularly unattractive.

"I am simply an old dog in the manger," he thought in angry disgust with everything, but most of all with himself.

Not wanting Celia for his own wife, it was yet odious to him to think of her as the wife of another.

And he had probably rushed the poor child into a disastrous marriage with O'Shea through my damned egoism and lack of forbearance," he fumed.

It was good to be adored as those eyes were adoring her.

"A fine guardian I've made! Even the dog in the manger guarded better than he would guard!"

But though Celia had refused his offer of a longer time in which to come to a decision, there still remained before them the three days he had asked for. His confounded book would be finished tomorrow. Tomorrow night, if she was still uncertain, he would suggest to her that she should go abroad together, in whatever unusual way, and to whatever fantastic land she might desire.

Here Donovan brought him word that for his latest note Celia was "much obliged."

He was surprised at the pain this brief but courteous message caused him. Yes, he was right. The child felt angry and bitter against him. She thought that he wanted to be rid of her, and he could not tell her the truth without becoming in his own eyes weak, egoistic, sentimental, who wished to work on the feeling of gratitude she had so often expressed to him.

He left the house weighed down by a sense of having blundered, perhaps fatally, where he should have mastered events and brought them to a happy issue.

What this happy issue might have been, he could not precisely see, but it certainly would not have taken the form of Celia's becoming O'Shea.

While she was pinning a cluster of his flowers at her waist (women had waited in those days), Jenkins tapped, announcing Mr. O'Shea.

She went down slowly, calmly, her elaborate toilette somewhat dimmed by the cloud of silver gauze that Donovan threw about her at the last moment.

She knew exactly what she was going to say, and in what words she was going to say it. How strangely simple it was! Just a few quiet words, and three lives would be changed, entirely changed. Her mind felt clear, cold, and sharp as an icicle.

But just inside the door of the room where Padraic was waiting she stopped short. A physical dizziness came over her, and her mind, which had felt clear and cold as an icicle, seemed suddenly to thaw and flow from her.

What was it that she was about to do?

Why was everything that had seemed so simple a moment ago now in such confusion? She stood leaning for support against the closed door, her eyes fixed as if in fear on Padraic, who was hurrying to her. And with every step that brought him nearer she realized that she was afraid—that what had made her so suddenly giddy was just fear.

She was afraid that if he kissed her his lips might not awaken such love as she ought to feel. . . . Everything hung on what this probable kiss would mean to her. . . . No wonder she felt dizzy.

Her dread, however, was quite unnecessary. Padraic was in his gentlest, most considerate mood. Not only the thought of her recent illness subdued him, but he had fully realized since their last meeting that his Melusine, unlike the kingdom of heaven, was not to be taken by violence.

He must win her little by little, and through patient tenderness, he told himself. She wouldn't have let him come again if she didn't love him. For the present that was quite enough. He must not startle her by making love to her.

So instead of the kiss on her lips that Celia dreaded, she felt his arm slipped over her gently as though he were urging her toward the fire.

"Dearest," he was saying anxiously, "I'm so afraid you oughtn't to have come down. . . . Don't let me be selfish. . . . Are you sure you're strong enough to be up?"

O, yes! Celia was quite sure. Indeed, so great was her relief at having been spared the test of his kiss that she felt entirely herself again. Her mind began to clear. . . . she remembered the words that she intended saying. . . .

But not yet. She couldn't begin just yet. . . . He had led her to an arm chair near the fire, and drawing up a low stool he himself sat beside her as he had done during that first intimate talk together so long ago. How long? Only three months? It didn't seem possible. She glanced down at him, and something in those dark blue, anxious eyes, shadowed by concern for her, made her more sure both of herself and of him.

Yes, he would do whatever she wanted. He would never look at her coolly and ironically. . . . Yes. . . . It was good to be adored as those eyes were adoring her. Everything would be just as simple and easy as she had hoped.

She had only to tell him. . . . He was kissing it now and then. . . . Are you quite warm again? Quite comfy?" he asked now, between the kisses.

"Quite," said Celia, smiling. She gave a little catching breath like a sigh. . . . He felt so grateful to him. . . . so very fond of him. . . .

"Dearest Padraic. . . . how good you are to me!"

He had a low laugh for this.

"It's you who are good to me. . . . letting me see you so soon, and putting me in your Princess Lorraine gown for me. . . . Am I too conceited? Did you put it on for me?"

"Yes," said Celia.

She drew aside the silver scarf, disclosing the knot of orchids.

"And your flowers, too. . . ."

"Dearest!"

The blue flame leaped for an instant, then he lowered his eyes, and contented himself with a slightly warmer kiss on her hand.

"It's deucedly hard," thought Padraic, "to be as much in love as I am and not to 'make love.' But he mustn't startle her out of this delightful confidence she was now showing him."

It's a Western, and Pretty Good If Not So Novel

"RUSTLING FOR CUPID"

Produced by Fox. Directed by Irving Cummings. Presented at the Monroe theater.

THE CAST:
Bradley Blackford.....George O'Brien
Sybil Hamilton.....Anita Stewart
Frank Hamilton.....Russell Simpson
Mrs. Blackford.....Edith York
Tom Martin.....Herbert Prior Dave Martin.....Frank McLean Jr.
Jack Mason.....Sid Jordan

By Mae Tinee.
Good Morning!
KIND: Western Drama.
QUALITY: Good.
DIRECTION: Satisfactory.
PHOTOGRAPHY: Okay.

ACTION: You'll like it. George O'Brien does some mighty good work as the hero. Anita Stewart, just as lovely as she ever was, is an appealing heroine. Russell Simpson, as the crooked cuss of the place, does certainly look and act that little thing. The supporting cast does itself proud.

THE STORY: It's not highly original, but offers a couple unusual angles. The pretty school teacher from the city has a romance with the handsome son of a cattle thief, who isn't positively known to be that until the picture is well under way. What happens while everybody's suspecting him is what composes most of the action of the film.

SCENERY: Beautiful.
COWS: Real.
HIGH LIGHTS: Hero being rocked by his mother. Hero weeping over his father.

REMARKS: That's not kidding about the high lights. It's not every six footer who can sit on his mother's knee and be graceful about it. And when George CRIES—he makes you perfectly miserable!

See you soon.

Woman Voters' League Meets in City of Birth

Mrs. Morrison Leads Illinoisans to St. Louis.

BY KATE WEBBER.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
St. Louis, Mo., April 13.—(Special.)

The National League of Women Voters has come back, one thousand strong, for its annual convention at the place of its inception, seven years ago.

It was in St. Louis that Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt first broached the idea of a league of women voters to a group of suffrage leaders. Now this nonpartisan aid to apathetic women voters reaches into the smallest communities in forty-four states.

At the convention sessions, which begin tomorrow and continue until April 21, Illinois with two hundred delegates, probably will have the largest representation.

Among the women who are to appear on the platform are Mrs. Katherine Hancock Goode, state representative; Mrs. James W. Morrison, president of the Illinois league; Mrs. William G. Hibbard and Miss Esther Dunne of the national board, and Mrs. W. W. Ramsay, legislative expert. Illinois delegates, arriving today, are non-committal on any action the convention may take regarding the eighteenth amendment. Prohibition, as such, has never been specifically endorsed or condemned.

Members will be urged to take back to their home leagues the national program for a strong get-out-the-vote campaign, during 1926, in order that the ratio of voters may be increased over the 16 per cent of the last campaign.

CLOSEUPS

The new Tower theater that opened Sunday on 63d street, between Blackstone and Harper avenues, under the direction of the Orpheum circuit, is doing a land office business. Besides the feature picture, "The Torrent," which the optician love, the entertainment consists of five vaudeville acts—three shows daily. The Tower is a beautiful structure. Its lobby has a dignity that makes you think of a cathedral. It has every sort of modern improvement and the decorations are tasteful. The show changes on Thursdays and Sundays. A lovely, restful place to spend an hour or so!

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Mrs. C. Hoeg, Decatur, Ill., was awarded $5.

The Question.
Do you like the grown-up style of suits for little boys?

Where Asked.
State street at Grand avenue.

The Answers.
Mrs. Josephine Tondelli, 923 West Grand avenue, housewife—

"I sure do. My little son has two of them—long trousers, collars, and neckties, and everything that goes with them, everything except a cane. He is as proud as can be and thinks he's the whole thing when he is in them."

Eugene Burns, 8 East Pierson street, student—
"On quite small boys, yes, but not after they become four feet tall or so. They are reasonable in price, nice in appearance, and they make the smaller boys look cuter. They even make little boys make a hit with little girls."

Mrs. Eleonor McCann, 22 East Grand avenue, housewife—
"They are very nice for little boys. I think I will have one of them for my baby when he gets big enough, but that will be some time yet. They add a little touch of romance to the appearance of the little fellows that is quite fetching."

Curtis Fallon, 1312 La Salle street, student—
"You know, they make little boys look like big men and we know they are not big men, yet they look like them and so we are fooled, but don't mind being fooled because a lot of those small suits make boys look better than big men look in their big suits."

Miss Margaret Haas, 2320 North Parkside avenue, bookkeeper—
"They are just the thing. They make small boys look cuter than the girls of their own age, and that's going some. I'd be happy in one of them myself—something like that. One of my little brothers insists upon wearing a corduroy suit."

Elaine Hammerstein to Wed Californian

Los Angeles, Cal., April 13.—(Special.)—Announcement of the coming wedding of Elaine Hammerstein, daughter of Arthur Hammerstein of New York, was made today by Mrs. Jean K. Allison, mother of Miss Hammerstein. She is to become the bride of James Walker Kaye, member of the Los Angeles board of fire commissioners. Mrs. Allison said no definite date has been set for the wedding.

THEATER

"THE DUCHESS OF ELBA": Farce, in three acts, by Rudolf Lothar, as adapted for the American stage by Avery Hopwood; made known in Chicago (by Charles Frohman) April 12, 1926, in the Harris Theater, with this cast:

Elisa Bignoli.....Francine Larrimore
Pompeo, her husband.....Eric Blore
Lallo, his son.....Felix Gage
General Cambronne.....Philip Merivale
Juliette, his wife.....Lila Chase
An olive-seller.....Lila Chase Boss.....C. Edwin Brandt
Sergeant Cipriani.....Charles Halton
Lieutenant Aprigli.....Borden Harriman

The author of "The Duchess of Elba" is a literary man of the theater whose ideas are witty and whose fancy runs to what is ruddyly comic and his new farce of this is both witty and comic in the notion and in the working-out. The device is to take a great man out of history and make of him the motivating figure in a tale of farcical incident and episode.

Mr. Lothar selects Napoleon, invests him on his final day in Elba with covetousness for the wife of a grocer, and a grocer's son, who is known as the "court purveyor," causes his atrocious attitude with its complementary desires to be conveyed to the lady via her husband, and promises the liberal compensation of titles and the means for living up to them. The husband, who is seeking to carry on with a girl in the service of the Corsican, manages to strangle such scruples against chock-olity as strive for expression when the proposition is spread before him; and the wife, seeing in the summons to the royal bedchamber an unexpected fruition of a secret passion she has ever entertained for her emperor, puts up no protest that is not effectively pook-pooed by General Cambronne, who has been placed in charge of the rendezvous.

And, arrayed as betis a green-grocer's wife who is about to sacrifice herself for the appeasement of a royal passion that otherwise might lead to royal cholera and to new and worse wars (for such are among the arguments of the suave and elegant officer de maison), Elisa finds her way to the chamber where the great warrior rests from the labors involved in planning the return from Elba. And there she is kept waiting as if she were one come to beg a royal favor rather than one who has been imported to give all. She is locked in for the night; and in the morning she learns that the song of the sailors which floated through the windows of the palace as she awaited the royal lover who never arrived was an anthem of joy that he had sailed in the darkness for France and the One Hundred Days—that she had been tricked into a frame-up whose real victim was her husband, suspect as treasonous in his attitude to the Emperor.

The foregoing, I submit, is a good tale for farce, whether written by the author of "The Werewolf" or by anybody else; and, from what I know of the sort of thing, I am assuming that he made it into capital fun. And I'm assuming nothing when I add that Mr. Hopwood and who ever else may have intervened in preparing the piece for the American stage have been successful in nothing save the removal of the flow and spirit and drive of the farce. Mr. Hopwood is not the fellow for this type of adaptation. He lacks the wit, the feel, and the sense of what is gayly risqué; and his substitute is what we used to get in Mr. George Jean Nathan's favorite opera, "Kismet."

However, "The Duchess of Elba" is not beyond repair. A play of like intrigue, "The King," was delightfully done over some seasons ago by Leo Dietrichstein; I refer to it now as proof that the trick can be done; and friends who saw a French piece called in New York "A Weak Woman" say that Mr. Eugene Boyd, who made the adaptation, had managed it con amore, and with a skill not equalled in recent years by any of the men who have undertaken to edit Continental fun for our stage.

Miss Larrimore, a deft and effective comedienne, is immensely funny as the grocer's wife with what is left for her by Mr. Hopwood. She knows her business; and it is to be hoped, for the sake of her skill, the defects in adaptation will be remedied. . . . Her associates are capable players who, like herself, require more with which to work than has been turned over to them.

Service in Hebrew to Be Farewell to Poet Bialik

A meeting tonight conducted entirely in Hebrew will mark Chicago Jewry's farewell to Chaim Nachman Bialik, noted Palestinian poet, who is closing a week's stay here in the interest of the $500,000 fund being raised locally for Palestinian work. More than a thousand scholars and lovers of Hebrew literature are expected to gather in the gold room of the Congress hotel, where Meyer Abrams will preside.

Season's Best Songs Sung by Miss Garrison

Composer's Work, Little Known Here, Charming.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Mabel Garrison should be and she hereby is thanked in all sincerity for having given a Chicago audience its first hearing of a set of altogether delightful songs, as persuasive and winsome a lot as the season has afforded.

She was the soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra in the final item of the Tuesday afternoon series, and in the second half of the program she sang "Five Love Songs with Orchestra," by Wilhelm Gross.

You will perhaps not know much about Gross; there does not seem much to know about him—yet. He is a Viennese, he is still fairly young—born in 1894—and he was a pupil of Franz Schreker. But he has something, and that something consists of a supply of uncommonly good tunes.

The words of the songs—poet named—accredit two from the Russian and one each from the Serbian, Hungarian, and Tunis. The music is not, it is true, strikingly national in character. If Gross meant to imitate the music from these localities, he did not work at it much.

What he did was to evolve some of the most studied and most spontaneous melodies that you are likely to have discovered in some time. They are all grace and cheer and springtime, and Miss Garrison was all in the mood for all of it. Which is an attempt to say that she and they were completely captivated.

The rest of the program was fairly conventional. Miss Garrison singing "L'Amor Sar Costante," from Mozart's "Il Re Pastore," Mr. Stock conducting Brahms' "Academic Festival" Overture, Frank's Symphony, and excerpts from the third act of Wagner's "Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg," a fine program and beautifully played, but not new.

These Tuesday afternoon concerts rate among the notable successes of the season. They have gone so well that next season their number will be raised to twelve. They will begin Oct. 24 and be played on the second and fourth Tuesday afternoon of each month until April 12, 1927.

Nurses Raise $17,315 for Passavant Fund

Graduate nurses of Passavant Memorial hospital yesterday contributed $17,315 in the drive to raise $150,000 for a new building to be erected on McKinlock campus of Northwestern university. The nurses gave $5,000 out of their own pockets, raised $10,000 by bazaars and benefits, and the balance was brought in by a team headed by Mrs. Herman L. Kretschmer, president of the nurses' alumni association.

During the day $77,061 was subscribed, bringing the total to $671,023. Additional donations announced yesterday included: George McKinlock, donor of the site of the new hospital, $4,800; Albert B. Dick, $9,000; Ira Nelson Morris, $7,500; the James B. Cline family, $4,500; Mrs. Charles Garfield King, $3,000; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Whitting, $1,800; Arthur Dumas, $1,800; sons and daughters of John and Mary Legeman, $1,800; Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Gillette, $1,800; Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, $1,800; Mrs. Harry H. Shearson, $1,800.

Here Man Grabs Off Preferred Position in Society Column Today

BY NANCY R.

As a rule, the feminine sex monopolizes most of the society column, but this morning one of Chicago's popular bachelors claims attention.

Bob Whiting (Robert B. Whiting, for formal occasions) has taken a new place in the society column, and has recently finished decorating it and arranging his lares and penates there—he has a quite wonderful collection of beautiful old furniture, of prints and rare objects d'art, several which many an aspiring miser, I understand, cast longing glances upon his good-looking owner took up his residence in Chicago several years ago.

However, except for the fact that he is "bacheling" it alone, there seems to be no reason to believe this special place is to join the ranks of the Bachelors' Club—his devotion to a certain clever and sylphlike young woman here is balanced by the fact that he's much in demand in Kansas City as a beau and house party guest.

His apartment last week-end in that gay borg, visiting the Le Roy J. Snyder, who gave a dinner for him Friday at the University club, and another on Saturday at the Country club. Miss Virginia George entertained for him at luncheon at the Country club on Sunday.

Many of our travelers have turned their thoughts and routes toward home at last. Sarah Brewster, who has been a delightful trip through Italy with her parents, the Walter Brewsters, has gone to Paris to stay with Mrs. Joseph Winterbottom. She expects to be there until her parents come up from Spain, where they are now. Mrs. Everett Thompson and her daughter, Laura, have returned from their European jaunt, and pretty Rue Winterbottom is at home from Central America and the Harvard prom.

Day's News in Society

Edith H. Gary of New York City is expected to arrive in Chicago a week from today for the wedding and preceding festivities of her granddaughter, Miss Elizabeth Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Willis Campbell of Evanston, to Edward Campbell Clark. Mr. Gary is to give a large luncheon at the Drake on the day before the wedding. The apartment in the Tower building in Evanston where Mr. Clark and his bride are to reside, is now completely furnished and in readiness for its occupants.

One of the largest of the pre-nuptial parties before the marriage on April 24 of Miss Judith Dana of St. Louis to Mr. Ward Thorne, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ward Thorne, will be a buffet luncheon for Miss Dana on Friday, the day before the wedding, to be given by Miss Josephine Moffitt, one of the bridesmaids. The Chicagoans who plan to be present for the service, which will be read at St. Michael and All Angels church, are the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thorne; his grandmother, Mrs. William C. Niblack of the Drake; and Miss Thorne. Miss Alden Swift, his aunt and uncle, Mrs. Corson Ellis (Roberta Thorne) are the only Chicago member of the bride's retinue. Mrs. Corson Ellis is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Parwell and Niblack Thorne are to be ushers.

The Evanston branch of the Junior auxiliary of the Infant Welfare society has sent out attractive pink dogtags and tickets for a circus at the Evanston Golf club on Friday evening, April 30. Mrs. Howard Stone of Evanston is in charge of reservations, and Miss Betty Shuman is managing the ticket sale. Some of the attractions are: a performance of the circus, a shooting gallery, dinner, and dancing. The only thing not circusy about the affair is the cost of the tickets, which sell for $5 each.

The Lester Arthur Lake Forest place is to be left in the hands of caretakers during the summer. The armours are to sail on May 5 to spend several months in England, where they have taken a house.

The Clifford W. Barnes of Lake Forest have returned from Pasadena, Cal., where they have been since Jan. 1, and will remain until June 1, when they will sail for the John P. F. Curties take possession of their estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Winter, who have been traveling since Jan. 1, have returned and are residing at the Lake Shore Drive hotel. Their son, Edwin Winter, is with them.

Infant Welfare Meeting.

The woman's auxiliary of the Infant Welfare society will hold its monthly meeting at the society's assembly room at 1120 Ontario this morning. Mrs. F. R. Swanson is to preside. The public chairmen of the various centers are to meet at 10:30 o'clock to discuss plans for "baby day."

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., April 12.—(Special.)—Henry M. Dawes of Columbus, Ohio, brother of the Vice President, will be joined in Washington tomorrow at the Willard where he has been for a week, by Mrs. Dawes who will come for a number of social engagements. Representative and Mrs. Carl R. Chidister of Chicago, and Representative and Mrs. Clifton A. Woodrum of Virginia and Representative and Mrs. James O'Connor of Louisiana, were the principal guests tonight at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Bailey at the Arts club.

Miss Salema Catherine Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Harris of Oak Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Salema Catherine, to James Dana, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Dana of Dubois, Pa.

WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Shoninger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Shoninger, to Reuben D. Cahn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wolf Cahn, will take place this evening at 7 o'clock at the Edgewater Beach hotel, the Rev. Louis L. Mann officiating.

Maryland Colony Meeting.

The Maryland colony of the Illinois Colony club announces a fort meeting and luncheon at the Gramercy hotel this noon. Mrs. Francis J. Moran is in charge of the reservations.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each child's saying printed. The story told must have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unsolicited contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Auntie Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

Every time Betty's little cousins came from a nearby town to spend the day the children would all dress up in some of Betty's mother's clothes and play ladies. When the girls came this year Betty came whining to her mother and said: "What can we play?"

"Why don't you play lady?" suggested her mother.

"Why, we can't," answered Betty. "Ladies don't dress long no more."

Marion had been naughty and I got angry and said that instead of punishing her I would get another good little girl in her place. Marion stopped crying and started to laugh, saying, "You can't trade me."

Being surprised, I asked her why.

"Well," said she, "no lady will trade you a good little girl to get a worse one."

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published in "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Write on one side of the paper. No name script returned.

Dilatory Decorator.

I was expecting a paper hanger who had already decorated me three times, so when $30 rolled around and he had not showed up I took down the receiver and called another one. I was just in the midst of my complaint to the second one when I heard a voice behind me at the kitchen door, saying, "Anybody home?"

It was my dilatory decorator, and he had heard every word I said about him!

ShinyNose?

Here is a chance to prove for yourself that you can get rid of that oily, shiny nose which ruins so many complexions this morning. Vauv does it! Put it on in the morning, powder over it—and for hours your nose will keep just that dull, velvety look you want it to have. One girl says: "I have tried nearly every cream on the market, but Vauv is the first one that really does get rid of shiny nose. The longer I use it the less I have to powder. My skin seems to get smoother every day, and blackheads have disappeared."

Try it for yourself. Go to any drug or department store and get a 50c tube of Vauv. Use it for one week as directed. Then, if you are not entirely satisfied, mail me the tube and I'll refund your money and postage. Be free at last from that worst of all skin blemishes—an oily, shiny nose! Write: Morgan, 137 Wilby Building, North Chicago.

Junior Leaguers Add to Their Charity Fund by Playing Mannequin

With all the airs and graces of professional mannequins, a dozen of the smartest and prettiest Junior Leaguers modeled gowns for charity yesterday afternoon. For their services and for another show this afternoon the league will receive a substantial sum for its various charities. The show was staged at Carson-Pirie's. Mrs. Lawrence Williams Jr. (Barbara Kirk), who promoted and bowed with apparent lack of self-consciousness in her robe of style of green taffeta and gold lace, was a great favorite with the several thousand persons interested in the spring mode. The other models and their respective costumes were: Mrs. Edson Manierre, Jenny Rose fair crepe dress and cape and a blue and gray berbered chiffon frock; Mrs. John R. Winterbottom Jr. in a checked cape coat and a green and white polka dot dress; Mrs. Charles W. Isaac Jr. in a short-sleeved evening gown and gold lame and chiffon velvet evening wrap and a green geometric print chiffon frock; Mrs. Sangster Heller, two place sports frock, white housecoat and a wool crepe frock; Mrs. Clarence P. Mitchell, ensemble of navy blue wool crepe coat and a black satin dinner gown; Mrs. George McLoughlin Jr., ensemble of gray tulle coat and crepe dress; Mrs. Virginia Denney, yellow damask silk dress and an ecru lace dress; Mrs. William R. Odell Jr., beige crepe satin afternoon frock; Mrs. William R. ## Face Steaming Is One Way of Getting Rid of Blackheads

"In trying to get rid of blackheads, do you recommend daily face steaming? Or what method do you advise?"—Discouraged.

Face steaming is a valuable aid in ridding the skin of blackheads, but it would advise against it as a daily habit. Twice a week is often enough for this treatment. The principle of steaming is to open the pores and make it possible to remove blackheads by pressure.

Have two towels working during the process. After cleansing the face with a good cream and removing the superfluous dirt, apply the towels. The pores open under the action of the heat and the cream works its way in, softening the hardened matter which forms the blackhead. Remove those that come out with moderate pressure, either with a comedo extractor or with the finger tips in which is held a bit of fresh absorbent cotton, or small pieces of clean linen. Don't use the bare fingers. Leave those that do not come out easily until the next steaming occasion. After pressing out the blackheads, the face should be wiped with alcohol, or a solution of hydrogen peroxide. Be sure to follow the hot towel applications with a couple of applications of towels wrung out of cold water.

The average blackhead trouble may be remedied by cleansing the face with cream, then a soap and water wash, using a complexion brush fairly vigorously on the affected parts, removing those that are ripe for removal, rinsing in warm water and then cold. The thing is to keep at it persistently and every night, and in the meantime rationalize the diet to conform to the needs of a healthy organism. Exercise, it need not be said, is invaluable along with diet in keeping the glands free of the hardened little masses of fat, which blackheads are, by promoting a healthier circulation of the blood.

Because blackheads are the beginning of almost every case of acne, it is vitally important that they be got rid of before they have a chance to irritate the skin, become infected and inflamed into pimples. Washing the face thoroughly is the only successful method of ridding the skin of the pesky blemishes.

Hunting Perfect Mate Is Another Diogenes Stunt

BY DORIS BLAKE.

You, too, probably have within the circle of your acquaintance a bachelor friend whose single state is an enigma beyond your understanding. Girls come into his life and go—charming girls, capable girls, and adorable girls. For some reason they slip away again and he goes merrily on bestirring hopes in other fair hearts. Sometimes, in spite of his armor of caution or whatever it is, he is tripped up and invariably by "the last woman in the world" who expects him to fall for.

We are not apt to think of the bachelor's impregnability as due to a too high standard adopted toward the opposite sex. Yet one of them has almost convinced us that it is true. He says men seeking wives start out with high standards and as time goes on, if they fail to marry, they tend to raise their standards higher each year. This naturally makes it more difficult, each year, for them to find acceptable mates, and often leads to undesired bachelorhood.

We are more familiar, I think, with this uncompromising attitude in women than in men. Women are frequently heard to express themselves on the subject. A man must be this and that and the other thing—a perfect paragon in looks and behavior—behavior, anyway, or she will have none of him.</
